CHURCHILL PLEDGE: VICTORY

His Price: Blood, Tears, Toil, Sweat

LONDON, May 13—In his first speech to the House of Commons as prime minister, Winston Churchill today gave this summary of Britain's aims in the war:

"If you ask what is our policy—it is to wage war on sea and land and in the air with all our might and all the strength that God can give us, and wage war against a monstrous tyranny never surpassed in the dark and lamentable catalogue of human crime.

"If you ask us what is our aim, I can answer in one word—victory, victory at all costs, victory in spite of all terror, victory however long and hard the road may be.

"I have nothing to offer you but blood, toil, tears and sweat."

SMASH AT MAGINOT LINE

BERLIN, May 13 (INS)—The first move against the Maginot line was launched today with a terrific artillery salvo which allegedly drove French troops from their field positions. Dispatches reaching Berlin told of German advances toward key points along a 25-mile front between Saarbrucken and Zweibrucken.

GERMANS CLAIM LIEGE

GREATEST BATTLE RAGES; NAZIS DRIVE ON BRUSSELS

Germany flung her vaunted divisions into The Netherlands and Belgium in what was described as the greatest attack in history today, while French and British airmen, bombing and machine-gunning, strove desperately to stall the advance.

Advance guards of the French columns rushing to the defense of the low countries met the German invaders and French dispatches insisted that the drive would be halted.

Hitler's war machine steam-rollered its way toward Liege and the Germans claimed capture of the city's citadel. This claim was immediately disputed by both London and Paris.

Belgian forces are putting up bitter resistance in the outer forts of Liege and French troops have been thrown into the battle raging around the strategic city.

The Belgian high command insists its troops have maintained their positions everywhere but report new heavy attacks by enemy motorized forces.

British Rush to Aid of Dutch

At Amsterdam air raid alarms twice rang out at dawn as Nazi bombers descended, followed swiftly by new legions of parachute troopers.

It was reported at least 30 were killed and many wounded during a morning bombardment of Amsterdam. The report said four heavy bombs landed in the center of the city.

Winston Churchill, in his first speech to Commons as prime minister of Britain, gave his policy as waging a war on all fronts with the sole aim of victory. He said his victory formula was simply "blood, tears, toil and sweat." At the end of his speech he received a 381 to 0 vote of confidence.

Amsterdam admitted fresh withdrawals of Dutch troops in the face of the intensified German push.

Most of the Dutch troops were massed on a redrawn front in southern Holland, reinforced by 20,000 British soldiers. The northerly and northeasterly portions of Holland were conceded to the Germans.

The newest German attack in Belgium was aimed at the canal fortifications which make up a vital part of the nation's defense system. Heaviest concentrations were thrown into the sector southeast of Tirlemont, only 25 miles west of Brussels.

Allies Pour in 250,000 Men

Refugees streamed out of the capital city of Brussels as the attack redoubled in fury. The government itself was prepared to flee if necessary but officials said the situation at the front appeared to be "stabilizing" and that the city was in no immediate danger from land attack.

From Brussels it was reported that three British and French columns, numbering possibly 250,000 crack troops, were pouring into the low land sectors and colliding in battle with two large German forces pushing through battered Belgian defense lines.

The heirs to the Dutch throne, Princess Juliana; her husband, Prince Bernard, and their two children fled to London today.

Berlin angrily replied to French threats to execute parachute troops by vowing ten Frenchmen would be put to death for every Nazi parachute trooper shot.

As the push began, French troops which for three days have been swarming into Belgium, engaged in brisk fighting with the Germans for the first time. Overhead, war planes of both France and Britain again and again swooped over the advancing German columns.

The French command termed the German drive "the greatest attack in history" but added they were prepared for it and that it would be halted on the ground.

Heavy fighting was reported continuing in the southern Belgian province of Luxembourg, near the French frontier, where strong German forces attacked east of the Maas (Meuse) river.

The Belgian high command made no estimate of losses, but the Brussels railway stations were crowded with wounded and it was conceded that casualties were heavy.

On the front in southern Holland the Dutch high command announced the army, reinforced by British, was "completely master of the situation" in the interior.

Strenuous measures were put into effect throughout the country to guard against any further uprisings by traitorous fifth-columnists.

Stating that the clearing of Rotterdam "has now been nearly brought to an end," the communique said:

"The airfield at Waalhaven has been heavily shelled by our artillery and in consequence has now lost all importance for the enemy."

The Germans, however, claimed a junction between their westward moving troops and the Rotterdam forces.

WAR'S NEW ARENA—As armies of five nations battle on Dutch-Belgian soil for the fourth day, Nazis claim capture of northeastern third of Holland and sinking of a 15,000-ton Allied troopship. Brussels is raided, Antwerp bombed, and Germans forced back in drive on Liege. Nazis claim crossing of Albert Canal at two points, but were pushed back further west. Meanwhile, attack on Maginot Line between Forbach and Vosges Mountains by large German force hints start of prolonged drive into France.

NAZIS CLAIM LIEGE TAKEN; FRENCH TROOPS MOVING UP

BERLIN, May 13 (AP)—German troops have broken into strategic Liege and the German flag has waved over the citadel of the famous fortress since this morning, the high command announced today.

Belgian troops are fighting bitterly against the crushing German advance, however, and are offering opposition in some of the outer forts of Liege, it said.

French troops are moving up and have been thrown into the area south of Liege and west of the Meuse river, toward which the German troops are moving, it added.

German troops also are driving west from Liege, north of the Meuse river.

The communique, issued from Adolf Hitler's headquarters with his army, said:

"The attack of German forces in the west made good progress on May 12.

"In Holland, German forces in the west made good progress on May 12.

"In Holland, German troops are moving forward west of the South Willem canal. They have established contact with troops landed by air around Rotterdam."

"In Belgium," the crossing of LONDON, May 13—The Allied armies are at grips with Nazi Germany in the "preliminary phase of one of the greatest battles in history," Prime Minister Winston Churchill told the House of Commons in his maiden speech as premier today.

"I invite the House by resolution to declare its confidence in my new government," he said.

In a forceful manner which greatly impressed the House, Churchill started in immediately with a brief exposition of Britain's military activities.

"We are already in action in Norway, Holland and Belgium," he said, "and have to be prepared for the Mediterranean . . .

"In the air, the battle is continuous and many preparations have to be made at home.

"If you as what is our policy—it is to wage war on sea and land and in the air with all our might and all the strength that God can give us, and wage war against a monstrous tyranny ever surpassed in the dark and lamentable catalogue of human crime.

OFFERS BLOOD, SWEAT

"I have nothing to offer you but blood, toil, tears and sweat.

"Before us we have an ordeal of the most grievous kind and many, many long months of struggle and suffering . . .

"If you ask what is our aim, I can answer in one word—victory, victory at all costs, victory in spite of all terror, victory however long and hard the road may be.

"For without victory there is no survival.

"I take up my task in buoyancy and hope and feel sure that our cause will not be suffered to fail among men . . .

"I feel entitled at this time to claim the aid of all and say: 'Come then, let us go forward with our united strength'."

F. D. PLANS HUGE SUM FOR ARMS

WASHINGTON, May 13 (AP)—President Roosevelt plans to send to Congress this week a recommendation for more money for national defense.

Stephen Early, presidential secretary, said the President at this time had no specific amount in mind, but would decide on some sum as a result of conferences with his advisers on defense. One such conference, with war and treasury department officials, was scheduled today.

Already pending before Congress are requests for upward of $2,000,000,000 for defense requirements ni the year starting July 1. There has been conjecture that Mr. Roosevelt, in view of needs emphasized by the war, might request another $500,000,000.

It appeared likely that stronger mobile defense forces to safeguard the western hemisphere at any threatened point would figure in any revised estimates of armaments.

Asked whether the President's message might cover the subject of upward revision of the $45,000,000,000 limit on the public debt to cover expanded defense appropriations, Early said he knew nothing about it, but assumed this was a point on which Treasury and budget officials would advise the Chief Executive.

Holland's Royal Heirs Safe In England; Baby in Gas Box

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—The heirs to the royal house of The Netherlands—Princess Juliana, her husband, Prince Bernhard, and t heir two children—arrived in London today. Princess Juliana led her two-year-old daughter, Beatrix, by the hand, while nine-month-old Irene was brought in a gas-proof box. Prince Bernhard carried one end of the box and a nurse the other.

The Earl of Harewood, brother-in-law of King George VI, met the royal family at the station.

A communique issued by the Foreign Office, with authority from the Dutch legation, stated:

"Her Royal Highness Princess Juliana of The Netherlands arrived in London today, accompanied by the two young Princesses, Beatrix and Irene.

"People of The Netherlands will be very happy to learn that their beloved princess is in safety. It is, of course, of paramount importance even if the worst should happen (for which fortunately there is no indication at present) that the royal house of Orange-Nassau should be safe.

"Prince Bernhard has accompanied the Princess and their daughters to London with the intention of resuming his duties as aide-de-camp to the Queen as soon as at all possible."

The name "Irene," signifying "peace," was chosen by Bernhard and Juliana for their infant daughter born within a month of the outbreak of the current European war because, Bernhard said at the baptism, "peace has such great importance for all in the present times."

Lowlands Invasion Protested by Mexico

GUANAJUATO, Mexico, May 13 (AP)—President Cardenas condemns the German invasion of Holland and Belgium, at the same time censuring those nations which failed to "place a dike around imperialist invasion" while there was time.

Speaking last night "in the name of the Mexican people," the chief executive said he was protesting "to the whole world against the newest outrages committed by militaristic imperialism . . ."

Conference Held In Berlandi Case

For half an hour today, Chief Justice F. Delano Putnam of municipal court and Asst. Dist.-Atty. Edward M. Sullivan conferred in the judge's chambers in the so-called "Berlandi case" now under investigation by the prosecutor's office.

Following the conference, Chief Justice Putnam declined to make any statement, but Sullivan said there was "some question about the legality of the lower court entertaining a contempt petition in the Berlandi case."

Sullivan said he intended to spend some time today in the Social Law Library, looking up the law in the case.

Investigation of the case was launched after an admitted handbag thief told a story that Angelo Berlandi, assistant secretary to Mayor Tobin, had asked him to confess a handbag theft so that Alfred Berlandi, 18-year-old brother of Angelo, would be freed on the charge of the same theft.

The self-confessed thief then accused the mayor's aide of promising him in return for exonerating Alfred.

Last week, Alfred was sentenced to three to four years in State Prison for violation of probation in connection with an old breaking and entering charge in Middlesex county.

That sentence superseded one of three months which had been imposed on Alfred in Suffolk county for the handbag theft, and which will be served after the prison term.

WORCESTER, May 13—John Esposito, 24, shot through the head during a quarrel with his father, according to police, clung to life by the thinnest thread, Memorial Hospital physicians reported today.

A bullet entered the youth's skull through the left ear. He has failed to regain consciousness.

The father, Mattevo Esposito, 53, who was found hiding in woods behind the Esposito home and overpowered by Patrolman William Wells of Shrewsbury, was subjected to further questioning concerning details of the shooting.

Errol, Lili Married? He's Got to Prove It

LOS ANGELES, May 13 (AP)—For $14,000, Screen Actor Errol Flynn may have to prove in court that he was married at Yuma in 1935 to vivacious Lili Damita.

The amount is involved in a three-sided controversy by Flynn Myron Selznick and Company as agents, and Warner Brothers studio.

Flynn claims the $14,000, claimed by Selznick as agent's fees, could not be assigned by himself, as he purported to do under a contract on August 17, 1938, and abrogated by him last August.

The actor contended before Superior Judge Emmet H. Wilson that the money is community property and subject to his wife's interest in it.

Selznick's Lili Damita counsel challenged this view, announcing they would "deny on information and belief he is married."

"Well, he ought to know whether or not," maintained Flynn's attorneys.

"Sometimes," observed the judge, "a person who thinks he's married finds out differently. It's a matter of proof."

So, Flynn may have to prove it.

Meantime, Judge Wilson granted Warner Brothers' request that the $14,000 be deposited with the court pending trial of the case.

The money represents 10 per cent of the actor's earnings since he countermanded the contract. Formerly, under the contract, it was paid automatically by the studio to Selznick.

The mayor was aroused by the shouts of Patrolman John H. McKenzie, who discovered the blaze and sought to wake up Mrs. Ellen F. Jennings, 74, and her daughter, Mrs. Mary F. Glennon.

The mayor, in bathrobe, dashed across the street to help the patrolman, and continued to hammer on the doors until he aroused occupants.

STRANDS OF HAIR CHECKED AS ALLYN MURDER CLUE

WESTFIELD, May 13—Human hair, found gripped in the bullet-scarred left hand of Prof. Lewis B. Allyn after he was shot to death last Tuesday night, was reviewed today as the first tangible clue to the slayer.

An analysis of the hair was begun by State Chemist Joseph T. Walker in hope that an important lead might be obtained in the hunt for the killer.

The analysis was expected to reveal if the hair is that of a man or a woman. Discovery of the hair also bore out police belief that Prof. Allyn grappled with his mysterious assailant in the vestibule of the Allyn home just before the shooting.

Meanwhile, with a break expected hourly in the case, Dist.-Atty. Thomas F. Moriarty indicated that a person close to Prof. Allyn either betrayed the scientist to the slayer, or committed the actual crime.

Investigators, he said, have under surveillance "a person or persons" as a result of untruths discovered by detectives during the questioning of witnesses.

Pending requestioning of witnesses, Moriarty declined to speculate on a possible motive.

Since the professor was found shot to death in his living room Tuesday night, officials have probed the possibility that he was murdered by persons who sought to obtain certain secret formulae he may have worked out in the field of food vitamins and concentrates.

But, Moriarty indicated, officials have never overlooked the fact that the noted research chemist was shot five times by a small caliber weapon, indicating the crime was committed by an enraged person who possibly nursed a fancied grievance.

Detectives were pinning their hope of a speedy solution of the murder on the ability of science to link strands of hair to their owner and to establish the matching of skin texture and cuticle.

Stories of the large sums Prof. Allyn received from his work in food analysis over a quarter of a century were not borne out in an examination of the estate, investigators said. They have been able to find no bank accounts and only some real estate of nominal value.

Beware of Blitzkriegs

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

Our congressmen tried out two types of army rifles down in Virginia. If straws show which way the wind blows we've just been walloped with a bale of hay.

The army will order 270,000 of the new rifles and don't let anybody tell you they're going to be used for fence-posts.

Of course, don't let us get frightened but we should be as prepared as a heavy eater with a napkin tied under his chin.

You can't tell when one of those blitzkriegs will fly off the handle

Holdup Man Shoots Clerk in Roxbury

Shot today by a bushy-haired bandit, Jacob Cohen, 33, of Evelyn st., Dorchester, clerk in the Golden Wine Co., Inc., Roxbury, was taken in serious condition to City Hospital.

Although police were unable to question him fully, they learned that a lone bandit entered the store in Washington st., near Dudley st., shortly after opening time and shot Cohen through the chest.

The clerk pursued the gunman to the street and attempted to point out the fleeing bandit to passersby in the busy thoroughfare, but the bandit vanished before the fast-weakening man could explain.

James C. Nelson, employed in an adjoining office building, saw blood dyeing Cohen's shirt and ran into the El Tavern, on the other side of the wine store, and telephoned police.

On the way to the hospital Cohen gasped out that the bandit had bushy hair, was between 30 and 35 years of age, 5 feet 6 or 7 inches tall, wore dark clothing and carried a bundle.

At the hospital it was found that the bullet had entered Cohen's left chest wall and had come out at the right, tearing through several ribs in its course, but missing vital organs.

After he had been put to bed, Cohen was able to talk more fully and told police that he had just opened the store when he turned and saw the man with a gun pointed. Cohen said he attempted to run into the back room and the bandit fired.

Police said that from the description they believe the bandit to be the same man who held up Matt Shaffer in a package store in Blue Hill ave., Roxbury, last Saturday with a sawed-off shotgun and obtained $50.

Baby With Stomach Upside Down, to Live

A 10-day-old baby boy was winning his fight for life today at Children's Hospital, after doctors performed an operation to correct an upside-down stomach.

The baby is the son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Ford of Avalon ave., Quincy Point, born May 2 at Quincy City Hospital.

At first believed to be a normal baby, the child suddenly began to turn blue and was saved only by the use of an oxygen tent. Specialists soon discovered the infant's stomach was pushing up through the diaphram, forcing the heart to one side and threatening to collapse a lung.

A report of "condition good" was given by hospital authorities today. They stated the baby might be able to leave the hospital within a month if recovery continued.

FLIES WORLD'S FASTEST PLANE!

TEST PILOT HOMER BERRY LIKES ALL THE SPEED HE CAN GET IN A PLANE, BUT HE LIKES HIS SMOKING S-L-O-W! SLOWER-BURNING CAMELS ARE HIS CIGARETTE

"FASTEST PLANE off the production line today!" That's how Homer Berry describes the Bell Airacobra, amazing new speed plane. He should know. This veteran speed test pilot started flying in 1913 . . . started smoking Camels the same year. "No other cigarette ever gave me anything like the pleasure of a Camel," he says. "They burn slower, smoke milder and cooler. Camels don't irritate my throat and their full, rich flavor doesn't tire my taste. In 26 years, that slower burning has given me a lot of extra smoking." Before you take it for granted you're getting all the pleasure there is in a cigarette, try Camels. Enjoy the advantages of Camel's slower-burning costlier tobaccos. Penny for penny your best cigarette buy!

TEST PILOT HOMER BERRY SAYS:

"No fast burning for me in my cigarette. I've smoked Camels ever since there have been any Camels. They burn slower and give me more pleasure per puff and more puffs per pack. 'I'd walk a mile for a slow-burning Camel!'"

MORE PLEASURE PER PUFF ...MORE PUFFS PER PACK!

Smokers who live in communities where certain state cigarette taxes are in effect can save the cost of the tax—and, in some instances, more—through smoking Camels. (See panel at right.) When you are a Camel smoker, you get this unique economy—and all the extra enjoyment of cooler, milder smoking—the fragrance and delicate taste of finer, more costly tobaccos.

HITLER'S SECRET WEAPONS: GAS, BOMBS, GUNS

BERLIN, May 13 (INS)—Bit by bit, from German high command releases and dispatches by German war correspondents, a grim picture of Germany's newest weapons of war began to emerge today amid the fighting in Belgium and Holland.

These weapons, according to best information in Berlin, consist of:

1—Immense air bombs dropped by fast dive-bombing planes.

2—Special guns capable, it is claimed, of cracking up pillboxes with only a few shots.

3—The war's "greatest surprise" so far—Germany's mysterious "immobilizer," believed to be a "nerve gas," which conquers key points in major fortifications by gassing the defenders into temporary lassitude.

AT POINT BLANK RANGE

All of these weapons are said to be in use by the German steam roller now smashing through the Low Countries in the Nazi drive toward the North sea.

The giant aerial bombs have been dropped on concentrated defense points.

In addition, as the German attack in Belgium and Holland has unfolded, specialized troops have approached key defensive points under cover of bombs and heavy artillery for application of the immobilizer, details of which are shrouded in secrecy.

Regional pillboxes have been silenced, according to German claims, by use of the Reich's new motorized guns specially designed for this work. These guns, drawn my armored tractors, fire a heavy explosive projectile at 100 yards—practically point-blank-range. Three shots are sufficient to destroy the objective, the Germans say.

CLOAKED IN SECRECY

(No details of its operation have been allowed to be revealed, save for the assertion that it is powerful enough to immobilize major fortifications as great, for example, as the main fort at Liege in Belgium.

(When Germany's claims regarding this weapon were first brought to light, they were met with derision in both London and Paris.)

It was in the Nazi assault on Eben Emael fortress, one of the strongest in the Liege-Albert canal defense zone, that Germany tried out the immobilizer. The fortress fell 1000 Belgians laying down their arms, it was reported.

Little of a concrete nature is known of the weapon—save that it use1 by a handful of airmen.

DNB, official news agency, indicated that a Lieutenant Witzig sat a plane down within the fortress, an area perhaps 600 to 800 yards in diameter, and by using the "Angriffsmittel" made the fort an easy mark for a column attacking from the north.

"Lieut. Witzig steered his machine into the center of the fort area," said DNB. "After immeasurable surprise and despite heavy defense measures, a thousand Belgians were taken prisoner."

It was known that Eben Emael Fortress bristled with light and heavy guns, as well as anti-aircraft batteries. It stands, a high-walled block of masonry, at the juncture of the Maas (Meuse) River and the Albert Canal, on the Dutch-Belgian border near Maastricht.

The guesses in Berlin as to the nature of the new weapon ran the range of fancy. Some suggested it might be a new, unchallengeable flame-thrower; others a strange device to render guns or ammunition impotent, and still others, a mystery bomb which the Germans are credited with having used in Barcelona, capable of blasting whole city blocks.

Neutral observers expressed belief the new weapon is a "nerve gas" which penetrates ordinary gas masks and temporarily disrupts muscular co-ordination.

They said a gas of this type had been developed in Germany and studied in other countries in recent months, and that soldiers inhaling it would be overcome by lassitude and would stager and fall.

(Howard Blakeslee, Associated Press science editor, reports that the American Chemical Society at a meeting two weeks ago suggested that liquid acetyl choline, if it came in contact with a wound or break in the skin, would make a soldier unconscious for as long as an hour.

(However, says Blakeslee, there were no suggestions as to how the chemical, which appears naturally in the human body in extremely small amounts, might be adapted to causing unconsciousness through inhalation.)

They indicated the Allies might be studying defense against this weapon, apparently capable of incapacitating entire garrisons. They reported that Allied and Belgian authorities were studying the gas masks carried by German soldiers who were taken prisoner.

American military gas experts he says, have discussed the use of gas in the present war from the viewpoint that variations in some of the gases used in the old war, rather than any totally new product, would produce a "surprise" weapon.

In this connection American gas officers recall an accidental discovery made during the World War concerning blue cross gas, which made men ill but which could be guarded against by wearing a gas mask.

LIEGE FORT CAPTURE IS CLAIMED BY BERLIN

the Albert canal was forced northwest of Hasselt. Our troops are moving forward west of Liege and north of the Meuse and have broken into the city of Liege.

"The German flag has waved on the citadel since the forenoon of May 13, while individual outer forts still resist.

"French troops have been thrown back west of the Ourthe and in southern Belgium. Our troops are there in a fluid advance and are beginning to approach the goal set up.

"South and southeastward from Zweibrucken (on the Westwall-Maginot front), our positions were moved forward and several hundred prisoners were taken. The advance of our army was supported effectively by the air force with attacks on troop concentrations, march columns and railroads.

"The air force continues its great battle for air superiority over the western area of operations with noticeable success. In all, on May 12 320 planes were destroyed, among them 58 in air fights, 72 by anti-aircraft fire and the rest on the ground. Twenty-five planes were brought down during a British attack at Maastricht by anti-aircraft fire. A single air squadron succeeded in shooting down 16.

"Our own losses, compared to the enemy and measured by our successes, were slight again yesterday. They consisted of 31 planes.

"The enemy also suffered heavy damage at sea.

NAVAL VICTORY CLAIMS

"Off the Dutch coast a cruiser was heavily damaged by bomb hits. One cruiser of the Southampton class (British) as well as a transport of 15,000 tons were sunk and seven more supply ships were hit and set afire.

"Off Narvik, where strengthened enemy fleet units appeared, a destroyer was seriously damaged by bombs and another destroyer was seriously damaged off Heemsey.

"In central Norway reinforcements have been sent to Germaan troops operating at Mosjoen and Mo. The group at Narvik stands in the defense fight against a far superior enemy force."

DNB, official German news agency, claimed German troops had captured the Liege citadel.

How they took the fortress was not told immediately. But Germany's armies, hammering wedges into both Belgian and Dutch defenses, have used a mysterious new weapon which, in the German opinion, may be the key to the French Maginot line fortifications.

It is credited with having caused the easy downfall of Eben Emael fortress, one of the strongest in the Liege-Albert canal defense zone, a break in Belgian defenses which opened the way to Liege itself.

A garrison of 1000 Belgians laid down their arms in the face of the secret Nazi weapon, it was reported.

In the fourth day of their land and air blitzkrieg in the Lowlands, the Germans made these claims:

LUXEMBOURG — The Grand Duchy in complete Nazi control.

CLAIM LINE PIERCED

THE NETHERLANDS — Most of the northern half of Holland, including all of Groningen province, and Harlingen, on the eastern shore of the Zuider Zee (Ijssel Meer), in German hands.

BELGIUM—The citadel of the Liege fortress captured; the Albert Canal fortifications, the main defense line between Liege and the coast of Antwerp, pierced.

THE AIR—Aviation supremacy with about 700 Allied planes destroyed in flight or aground.

Official Nazi sources forecast a historic clash today, in that the massed armies and air forces of the major belligerents were likely for the first time to engage in open, gigantic battle.

This, they said, was because the German progress through Belgium and Holland—particularly the little Dutch kingdom—has been ahead of schedule and, apparently, has propelled the situation to the edge of a great battle.

Reports of a German fleet moving through the Kiel canal with Sweden as its objective were branded officially as "a stupid swindle—not a word of truth in it."

(Sweden, anxiously watching sea and air approaches to her neutral soil from Germany, has ordered total blackouts indefinitely and has mined parts of the Oresund, the narrow channel between the Swedish coast and German-occupied Denmark.)

International News Radiophoto

TOSSING DEATH—Each one containing enough explosive to blow up a bridge, small mines are shot from mortar by German soldiers . . . somewhere in Holland. Photo was radioed from Berlin, approved by censors.

Dutch, British Reassure Japs

TOKIO, May 13 (AP)—Britain and Holland both assured Japan today they had no intention of altering the status quo in The Netherlands' rich Indies possessions.

British Ambassador Sir Robert Craigie informed Foreign Minister Hachiro Arita Britain did not intend to interfere with the present situation in the Dutch East

Concern had been expressed in many Japanese quarters lest the British and French landings of forces in the Dutch West Indies might be followed by similar Allied action in the East Indies. Japan has officially notified interested powers of her insistence that the European war shall bring no change in the East Indies' status.

Holland also reassured Japan.

Reich Airmen Claim 50 More Allied Planes

BERLIN, May 13 (AP)—The German air force shot down more than 50 Allied planes this morning, DNB, official German news agency, announced. These included 10 Spitfires (British pursuit planes) at Dordrecht, and 26 of the same type at Vlissingen. Both places are in The Netherlands.

Churchill Pledges Victory at Any Cost

minutes. His brief speech was a masterpiece of rhetoric. Observers could not help but comment on the fact that while he virtually had waited all his life for this first appearance before the House with the highest office in the land in his possession, his speech was one of the shortest in parliamentary records.

Just before he began, War Secretary Anthony Eden announced that the question of dealing with German parachute troops was engaging the government's "urgent attention."

Eden told a questioner he hoped to make an early statement on "immediate formation of a voluntary corps composed of older men armed with rifles and Bren guns for instant action in any locality" in Britain in view "of the imminent danger of enemy parachutists landing in this country."

CHEER TO CHAMBERLAIN

Churchill was cheered to the echo as heentered the chamber after Parliament had been surprisingly summoned into session.

Neville Chamberlain, whom Churchill succeeded, made lord president ofthe council in the new war cabinet, also received an ovation as he entered with Churchill.

Parliament, in recess for the Whitsuntide holidays and not scheduled to reconvene until May 21, was summoned to meet today following the wee-end cabinet reorganization

Churchill said Commons would adjourn after today's proceedings to May 21.

He said his war cabinet of five members, including Opposition leaders, represented the unity of the nation.

REPLY TO HITLER

Churchill said he would submit a further list of ministers to King George tonight.

Hastings Lee-Smith, on behalf of the Labor party, announced to the accompaniment of tremendous cheers the decision of his group to support Churchill. He announced the Labor party's acquiescence in a resolution stating that "the House welcomes formation of a government representing the united and inflexible resolve of the nation to prosecute the war against Germany to a victorious conclusion."

"We have given a reply to Hitler's charge that British parliamentary government is decadent," he said.

Sir Percy Harris, on behalf of the Liberal party, praised Churchill for having "the necessary imagination and vigor for the task ahead."

Sir Percy Harris, Liberal, said Churchill had the "necessary vigor and imagination for the task ahead."

LLOYD GEORGE'S PRAISE

The Independent Laborite, James Maxton, sounded a note of discord, saying he opposed the motion and did not approve of the reconstructed government.

David Lloyd George, Britain's World War premier, upheld the motion and offered his personal good wishes to his "old friend—the new prime minister."

A resolution by Lord Halifax, foreign secretary, welcoming the new government, was greeted with cheers in the House of Lords.

Lord Halifax paid tribute to former Prime Minister Chamberlain's "sanity of outlook, his resource and tenacity of purpose" which still were at the nation's disposal.

Lloyd George, congratulating the country on Churchill's elevation "at this very critical and terrible moment," lauded the premier's "glittering intellectual gifts, dauntless courage and profound study of war, his experience in its operation and direction." He added with dramatic emphasis that "they will all be needed now."

His voice breaking with emotion, Lloyd George said "friends of freedom and human right throughout the world wish him (Churchill godspeed . . . the sacrifices of Britain and her empire will be at his disposal."

4 ALLIES STIFFEN DEFENSE

BRUSSELS, May 13 (INS)—Bolstered by strong British and French reinforcements, Belgian and Dutch troops in the Ardennes-Liege Maastricht area clashed with mechanized German forces in a major battle beginning at dawn today while the Nazi air force resumed its merciless bombing of invaded territory.

Allied forces, arriving in steadily increasing numbers, fought beside the Belgians, who strove valiantly to halt the Nazi rush through Belgian defenses.

Latest word from the battlefront said that the great Belgian forts at Liege and Namur were holding out despite intensive air and artillery bombardments.

BELGIAN MORALE HIGH

(Editor's Note—The German high command today announced capture of the Liege citadel.)

With the Allies now disputing Germany's air supremacy, German tanks and mechanized columns were reported held up at Tongres and the heights of Waremme. British, French and Belgian planes constantly attacked the German columns which pressed a flanking drive past Liege to Waremme, 13 miles northwest of that city.

A wave of fresh confidence inspired all of Belgium today. Air raid alarms throughout the country and numerous bombings failed to dampen the Belgian conviction that Germany has no better than an even chance in the dark days that lie ahead.

MANY CIVILIANS KILLED

Premier Hubert Pierlot, in a radio broadcast at 6 a. m., gave a resume of the military situation, claiming it was not nearly as dangerous as had been supposed.

The Germans, it was indicated, as still 50 miles from Brussels.

Brussels and vicinity were attacked from the air again today, one heavy bomb dropping at Rixencert, 11 miles south of the capital. A French fighting plane pursued the German craft and shot it down at Altenberg.

Midway between Brussels and Ghent, German bombers mercilessly attacked the main road in an apparent attempt to break up Allied troop movements. A large number of civilians were reported killed.

Fragmentary advices indicated that French advance guards were in contact with the Germans.

British Calm Fear of Nazis

LONDON, May 13 (AP)—An authoritative British source said today that the main German attack on the lowlands was developing as expected and was attempting to drive a wedge be ween the Belgian and Dutch armies.

There were many indications, not necessarily military, this British source said, that the Nazis "will stake almost everything in an attempt to win this war quickly."

Britons were urged not to be disheartened "when they hear of certain withdrawals and should not be unduly pessimistic," he said, in emphasizing that reports for the next few days would be obscure, scarce and often inaccurate.

Information regarding parachutists in Rotterdam and The Hague, it said, was obscure and frequently contradictory.

German parachutists, he said, all are very highly trained in offensive technique and "armed to the teeth."

He charged that they were chosen for ruthlessness and wore Allied uniforms, civilian clothes, police and postal uniforms and even women's dresses.

This source said the parachutists were very well informed about the localities in which they landed and instances were reported in The Netherlands of their going directly to addresses of German sympathizers.

FRENCH HURL NEW TROOPS ON ENEMY

PARIS, May 13 (AP)—Germany pushed her attack against The Netherlands and Belgium with redoubled violence today as French reinforcements rushed to aid the besieged lowlands, the French high command reported in a communique.

The enemy attack was reported to be particularly severe in the region north of the Albert canal, apparently in an effort to widen the breach already forced in the canal fortifications which make up a vital part of Belgium's defense system.

The Germans also threw heavy concentrations into the sector southeast of Tirlemont, which is only 25 miles east of Brussels.

Paris' third air raid alarm in little more than 14 hours ended without incident at 2:51 p. m. (8:51 a. m., EST). The capital was on the alert for 21 minutes. No planes were heard and no anti-aircraft fire was loosed.

A French war department spokesman said at mid-afternoon that so far the only fort in the fortified zone around Liege that has fallen to the Germans was Eben Emael.

SITUATION IMPROVED

(The German high command communique said Nazi forces also had occupied the citadel of the Liege fortress—apparently the core of the city's defenses—but that Belgian resistance was continuing at some of the outer forts.)

The French war department spokesman declared that in Holland "the interior situation is much improved."

Other major points in the renewed Nazi drive, a communique said, were in the Belgian Ardennes mountains, which face German-occupied Luxembourg, and in the region between the Albert canal and the lower Rhine.

(This apparently was the Dutch province of north Brabant, where the Dutch high command reported French reinforcements had made contact with the enemy.)

French planes zoomed over the advancing German columns during the day and night, bombing and machine-gunning them time and again and bringing down a total of 12 Nazi planes during the night.

DALADIER IN BELGIUM

A war ministry spokesman announced that Edouard Daladier, member of the war cabinet and minister of national defense, arrived in Belgium yesterday.

The war ministry spokesman said the action in which French advance guards were backing up the Belgians in their fight against tremendous German thrusts in the Tongres region and the Belgian Ardennes was the prelude to a gigantic battle which might be expected in the next day or two, when the main body of the allied forces will be in position.

On the French main front, a full German division was stopped in an attack east of the Moselle river, the spokesman said. In the Forbach region, French outpost forces dropped back to their first line of fortified positions when the Germans charged after heavy artillery preparations.

The French and Germans also were at grips along the France-Luxembourg frontier.

Stocks, Bonds Pushed Down

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Stock market industrial leaders were pushed down $1 to more than $4 a share by an early selling movement today.

Brokers reported that orders for considerable liquidation had accumulated before the opening, prompted in part by German claims of military successes.

At times the ticker ran as much as three minutes behind the market. Foreign selling was reported in some Wall Street boardrooms.

Bonds followed a similar trend, as did some key commodities, notably silk. Chicago wheat prices were moderately down.

The British pound again broke widely in the "free" foreign exchange market. In terms of the dollar it was marked down about seven cents in early dealings to around $3.21. The French franc and Canadian dollar also were depressed.

War's Surprise For U. S. Woman

PARIS, May 13 (AP)—An American woman looked out a window of her country place north of Paris today and saw a sturdy young man in shorts running through the garden.

She took him for a Boy Scout, she said, and thought no more about it.

Then the gendarmes came and said a peasant woman had reported the landing of five parachutes. The American woman mentioned the "Boy Scout."

"Why didn't you shoot him?" exclaimed the excited gendarmes.

"Because I didn't know it was open season on Boy Scouts," she replied, pointing out the course the youth had taken.

Nazi Transport Mined and Sunk

LONDON, May 13 (INS)—A Reuters (British) dispatch from Stockholm said today that the German transport Campania was mined and sunk in the Sound, which separates Sweden from Denmark while en route to Germany from Oslo.

Another German transport, the Anhalt, was reported grounded in the same area but later refloated, according to the Malmo correspondent of the newspaper Aftonbladet, Reuters said.

Dutch Admit New Advance by Nazis

AMSTERDAM, May 13 (INS)—New Dutch withdrawals in the face of a terrific German onslaught were admitted in a communique by the Netherlands high command today.

Dutch troops withdrew with slight losses after contacting the enemy west of Gelderland, the statement said, in general fighting along Ijssel lake (Zuyder Zee).

Some Germans remain in southern Rotterdam, but lack artillery. The Dutch air force is putting up a brave defense against the German air force, the statement said. The Dutch high command charged the Germans with using Dutch civilians as "shields."

(The National Broadcasting Co. in New York said today that at least 30 persons were killed and many wounded this morning during a bombardment of Amsterdam in which four heavy bombs landed in the center of the city, according to a French broadcast.)

"German troops at various points have crossed the river Maas (Meuse) and the river Ijssel," the Dutch communique stated.

"Our frontier troops have partially withdrawn toward the interior."

(The Berlin radio claimed the Dutch defense line from Zwolle to Deventer, guarding the "gateway to western Holland," was broken at several points, and added that "northeast Holland is now in German hands.")

"Dutch planes bombed advancing German troops while French troops are in contact with the enemy east of Brabant," the Dutch communique continued.

"The northern provinces, which had no defences, have been entered by the Germans with our frontier troops withdrawing while slowing up the German advance.

"German parties landed (presumably from planes via parachutes) during the first days of the invasion and seized motor buses containing Dutch civilians. Our armored cars have dealt with these.

"The Germans do not seem to be able to fight in the Netherlands unless they can use Dutch civilians as shields. Our artillery successfully attacked Wallhaven. Mopping-up activities in Rotterdam are nearly completed.

More Runnells Cash Hunted

AUGUSTA, Me., May 13—A new clue sent investigators today on a hunt for more hidden money in the Runnells case.

Shortly before the former State Controller William A. Runnells was formally accused of embezzling state funds, he emptied a safe deposit box at the Depositors Trust Co., police said.

Later, investigators found a brief case which contained approximately $26,000. But, officials said, Runnells apparently had carried this small fortune around for several months.

Nazis to Kill 10 for Any Chute Execution

By PIERRE J. HUSS
International News Service Staff Correspondent

BERLIN, May 13—The German high command flared in anger today over public announcement of Premier Paul Reynaud of France that death sentences would be meted out to captive German parachute troops if they were found to be wearing any but their own national uniforms.

An official announcement said the German government had sent formal notes to Brussels, The Hague, Paris and London warning of the sharpest retaliation against any mishandling of or irregular procedure against German parachute troops.

The German army will shoot ten French prisoners for every German parachute soldier executed, the high command declared, flatly denying charges these troops masqueraded in enemy uniforms.

The notes threatening Nazi reprisals were sent to the German embassies at Washington, Berne, Stockholm and Madrid for relay to various enemy capitals.

(London officials said today German parachute prisoners wearing German uniforms will be treated as prisoners of war if captured but those in disguise will be shot.)

The entire German public, the high command declared, is infuriated over public Allied agitation for "extermination" of parachute troops wherever they are captured.

It was therefore officially reasserted that parachute jumpers are part and parcel of the regular German army, that they are regularly uniformed in kits repeatedly displayed to foreign military attaches in Berlin, and that similar specialized units exist in other armies of the world.

Through its official news agency, Germany demanded Reynaud furnish an explicit and definite explanation of alleged assertions over the French radio that "German parachute troops caught and taken prisoners were exterminated."

Student Rioters Curbed in Italy

ROME, May 13 (AP)—In the midst of a rising anti-Allied campaign, Italy busily reinforced her Littorio line of fortified positions along the western Alpine frontier facing France today and, according to Italian sources, called out additional reservists to reinforce her army of 1,250,000 men.

There were two major expressions of ani-Allied sentiment, one a series of student demonstrations that brought out 500 soldiers and police to protect the British and French embassies, the other continued propaganda against British-French control over shipping in the Mediterranean.

Troops and police prevented the student demonstration from reaching two embassies. Students who had marched through the streets with an Italian flag despersed after spectators said they had heard them shouting for war.

In addition, Catholic sources announced that English and Scottish seminaries for student priests were being closed and that the Belgian seminary had been closed.

No confirmation of the call for fresh reservists was available in authoritative quarters on the grounds that it was military information. But one informed source said the figure of 1,000,000 men published abroad probably was exaggerated.

Care for Gift Plants

By T. W. LEGGETT

With reasonable care, any of the plants that Mother received yesterday will remain in a pleasing state of bloom in the house for at least ten days. Keep them out of draughts, however, and in a not-too-hot sunny place.

Of course, flowering plants do like some sun for part of the day if they are to continue to hold up their heads.

Frequent regular watering is absolutely necessary. In warm rooms or on hot days two waterings may be necessary to prevent wilting. Hydrangeas, quick wilting at best, will hold up better if kept in a jardiniere to prevent loss of water through the pot. On the other hand, flower pots should not be allowed to stand in saucers of water too long, nor the soil to be constantly water-soaked.

Later, when all danger of frost is past (because these are forced plants), the rose, hydrangea, azalea or Marguerite can be transplanted into the garden for keeps, for they are all hardy plants.

One of the best florist plants during May is the geranium. Fine sturdy specimens in a wide range of hues, in common Zonal type or the less permanent Martha Washington, are cheerful and will do well when transplanted.

Small flowering begonias of the Semperflorens type belong in the same class. They will lead a double life: in the garden this summer and as a house plant next winter.

Shirley Quits Screen for Normal Life

HOLLYWOOD, May 13 (AP)—No longer "a cute little girl with dimples and twinkling feet," Shirley Temple is leaving the studio where she rose to stardom. Shirley is growing up. Now 11, she has lost the position of No. 1 star of the screen, which she held from 1935 to 1938, inclusive.

Twentieth-Century Fox, for which Shirley is reported to have earned $20,000,000, was willing to give her up. So Mr. and Mrs. George Temple paid for their daughter's release, although her contract ran to July 1.

"Personally we feel that it is not a question of Shirley's personal appeal," said Mrs. Temple, "but rather a matter of stories.

"Admittedly greater discernment is required in the selection of material for Shirley today than when she was just a cute little girl with dimples and twinkling feet.

"We feel that 20th-Century Fox has made an effort toward finding proper and suitable material, but the results have not been satisfactory to suit the new growing-up phase in Shirley's life."

Mrs. Temple said she did not think it wise to deprive her daughter "of those normal, natural benefits that may be derived from mingling and competing with a large number of children.

"We believe she may be able to gain more from these associations if she leaves the screen for a time, because she will not then be spot-lighted in the eyes and minds of those about her," she continued.

Joseph M. Schenck, of the 20th Century-Fox board, disclosed Shirley will receive bonuses totaling $300,000 from a trust fund which the studio created and has been adding to since the fall of 1936.

of the Typical Family selected, the eldest child to be not over 18, will be transported from Boston to the New York World's Fair and back by automobile, with all meals and hotel expenses paid. They will be entertained at the Fair for one week, beginning July 22, without any cost whatever to themselves. The Family, while at the Fair, will live for one week in a completely furnished house built inside the Fair Grounds in accordance with the standards set up for home construction by the Federal Housing Administration. The house accommodates four persons, and for this reason only four members of the Family selected may go to the Fair. The Family will have complete freedom of action as to what they want to do and see. They will, in fact, live each day as they would during any normal holiday period.

9—It is understood that entrants give permission to publish photographs and stories of their Family.

10—This competition is not open to employes of the Boston Sunday Advertiser-Boston Evening American, nor of other publications or advertising media.

Ziegfeld Hits Enliven Fare at Latin Quarter

By SAM BERENSON

It's the Hail and Farewell season along the Rialto, the time of year when rolling roofs slip back to the stars . . . and high above the city's lights the terraces and the roof-gardens blossom gaily forth in the warm spring night . . . It's the time of year, also, when a few of the merry-spots sadly put out the cat and click the latch until autumn once more spins 'round . . .

But an exception to all of the above is this evening's debut of the Hub's smart supper-salon, the Beachcomber . . . Monte Proser's latest hotelry will subtlely tempt the Boston palate with the exotic foods and the strange drinks of the South Seas; for the Beachcomber is a definite Zombie oasis . . . and through its atmosphere and colorful entertainment, this venture should be a grand success . . . Vincent Bragale, erstwhile Dempsey-Vanderbilt batoneer; rhumba dancers Lola & Andre; and Juanita Rios in the spotlight.

As we say, the Roofs will have their openings . . . The so-smart Ritz becomes sky-minded on Tuesday—with the music-making of the Ruby Newman orchestra as a potent lure; on the 24th, the Westminster attic will be featuring Jimmy McHale; and ere the month is out, Spencer Sawyer's Sheraton Roof, with Johnny Cole's crew, will be calling the p. m. minded. Lou Walters, guiding destiny of the sleek Latin Quarter, is offering at this colorful rendezvous a new and sparkling revue, "Hits from Ziegfeld's Follies" . . . this glamour parade shapes up as one of the merriest hitherto on the Rialto.

That sparkling new show at the Grove is a must date for the week's calling . . . gay, with a world of speed and color, and offering as nice a bit of merriment as can be found the length of the Rialto . . . those Tuesday night amateurs an especially good take-in . . . Benny Carter—who can blow an alto sax in our band any time—has just thumb-downed a deal which would have had him front the old Chick Webb jive-crew . . . Ella Fitzgerald and Benny couldn't see eye-to-eye on the financial angles . . . Blinstrub's, the torrid South Boston spot, enters the warmer months with the well-merited reputation of being as delightful a p. m. salon as ever was trod by local foot . . . the shows here are uniformly high-ranking, with starry personalities the rule.

Eddie Davis reports that business at the Fox and Hounds is at the highest peak in months . . . which is business, for the Beacon st. salon has never suffered from lack of Clientele . . . good food and a pleasant atmosphere . . . A major shake-up for the Louis Armstrong band, with Sa'cheimo' dropping an even half-dozen swingsters . . . Mickey Redstone is certainly seeing to it that patrons at the smart Club Mayfair are receiving plenty of entertainment value . . . always an interesting offering in the smartest of atmospheres . . . Wrentham Show Boat coming in for a brisk slice of the warm-weather trade . . . an attractive offering . . . Business remains as brisk as ever at Ribby's that enticing Allston gathering spot . . . Warm weather to a great many folks means the Hampton Beach Casino, and this beach rendezvous is proving as great a lure this year as it has in the past.

Alice O'Leary and Hubby Adrian O'Brien, for many a moon ranked high among local entertainers, are currently drawing a mighty fine round of paw-slapping at Steuben's Vienna Room . . . Vacation problems . . . and you should have the same headache: Bing Crosby's radio contract automatically gives him 13 weeks off . . . but Bing is clamoring for 21 . . . wants to spend it in South America looking for something that can win the Santa Anita . . . Cappy's that bustling No. Easton oasis, continues to do a grand job of packing 'em in . . . and with good reason, for here's one of the fastest spots off the Rialto . . . Manager George Clarke of the Westminister Blue Room reports the best show of the season with topbilling to the Mystics.

The brilliant star of the current Kitty Brando revue is none other than the gracious Ethel Barrymore Colt, ever a welcome guest to Boston town . . . "name" attractions such as this has been a feature at Kitty Brando's since the new shingle was hung out . . . and it is why gadabouts more and more are making it their prime calling spot . . . That old baton-swisher, Joe Rines, has now gone and got himself a roadhouse in New Jersey.

Jack Brown phones to have it known that the Wednesday guest at the Casa Manana will be Mrs. Edith Dahl . . . 'twasn't so long ago that this blonde young lady was being front-paged throughout the country . . . quite an attraction for the Casa . . . The fair name of Ruby Foo gains additional fame this summer with the opening of two new spots at the World's Fair . . . Jack Yelverton won't forget Salem in a hurry . . . Jack, clarinet with Bobby Eyrne, found a golf ball caroming off his head while watching a match in that town . . . he's on the mend at Salem Hospital . . . Vanity Fair club as interesting as ever . . . El Bolero now headed by Bill Hennessy.

The new El Tropico room of biggie Izzy Ort has clicked already in magnificent style . . . Izzie has certainly turned out a slick piece of work in this sarong-salon, one that adds a further bit of color to the Rialto . . . Artie Shaw succeeds Paul Whiteman in the flicker "Second Chorus" . . . with Paul going over to Metro for a threesome with Mickey Rooney and Judy Garland in "Strike Up the Band" . . . An exceptionally attractive show bursts onto the Lawrence after-dark scene this evening with the debut of a smart razzle-dazzler at the Lawrence Hofbrau . . . Joe Wagenbach assures us that a great deal of thought and effort has gone into the current Hofbrau production . . . which means definitely a bang-up show all around.

Sam Golden, publicity whirlwind of the Hotel Essex, drops in to assure us that warm weather is finding a more brilliant series of floor entertainments at the Grill Room than has been featured even throughout the winter . . . plenty of action is always to be found at this spot . . . and plenty of fun . . .

Sally Keith, famed tassel-swisher, remains on at the Crawford House for yet another week . . . which must certainly establish a record at this popular gaiety certer . . . Another event coming in for more than a passing share of public interest is the Friday opening of Jack Donahue's Circle Inn at Nantasket.

Dust-Out Engulfs Egypt War Base

ALEXANDRIA, May 13 (AP)—The Allied battle fleet in the harbor and all Alexandria was engulfed today in a "dust-out."

A dense, swirling sandstorm sweeping in from the desert, tossed sand in streets, homes and offices. Visibility was limited to a few hundred feet.

British and French warships which had been patrolling the Mediterranean were forced to anchor in the harbor.

U. S. Army Next Best---General

CAMP BEAUREGARD, La May 13 (AP) Maj. Gen Walter C. Short today extolled the American army, with perhaps only one exception, the toughest and best conditioned in the world.

He said he believed its future training depended on European events and what President Roosevelt "has to say."

The general, commanding the Fourth Corps in the third army's maneuvers with 70000 regulars in western Louisiana and in Texas.

"Our soldiers at this time, I believe, are the toughest peace-time army in American history. I think they are tougher and better conditioned than any army in the world, including the Allies.

"There is only one army that can be compared with them—that part of the German forces which fought for weeks in Poland."

BE AMERICAN

TWO RECENT SHOCKS have disturbed our complacent American attitude toward military matters.

Secretary of the Navy Edison has acknowledged that American battleships are not properly armored to withstand modern aerial bombing.

Now Brigadier General Arnold, chief of the Army Air Corps, reports that the best American aircraft are deficient in many ways by contrast with the most effective types developed in European war.

These appraisals must suggest that the United States is not in any position to go barging into foreign wars.

Apparently the United States is not even very adequately prepared to defend itself.

The American government has been proceeding on the assumption that by selling the bulk of the output of our aviation industry abroad we develop production facilities capable of being turned to our own need when and if we find ourselves in need.

In pursuance of that policy, we have comfortably supposed the airplanes we were building for the Allies in Europe and were capable of building for ourselves in our own good time were quite the best available anywhere.

The supposition is at least now open to doubt.

A certain amount of clarification is in order.

LATEST DIVE-BOMBER FOR AMERICAN NAVY
Is It Superior to Similar Craft Manufactured Abroad?

According to what has hitherto been widely printed, and is now suspected of being propaganda, American types of aircraft sold to the Allies had been running rings around German planes in combat.

We had been encouraged to take a rather superior, if not supercilious, attitude toward the airplanes of other nations.

While we should not be discouraged from believing we are an intelligent and efficient and progressive people, we are probably not a particularly superior people.

The complex of superiority is a very dangerous thing.

Sometimes it leads nations into foolish and reckless adventures, against either supposedly or actually weaker neighbors, and wastes much life and money needlessly.

Sometimes it lulls strong and rich nations into a false sense of security, and thus invites and provokes assault and aggression.

The American Congress should look very thoroughly into these matters.

SAYS A ROXBURY WOMAN in reply to Columnist E. V. Durling's recent comments on women's hats:

"Criticisms aimed at the ridiculous and fantastic headgear worn by some of our American sisters do not apply to Boston. Here, women are more sensible. We try to be up-to-the-minute. But we don't attempt to shock people into looking at us."

BOSTON'S CHOICE
Refined and Glamorous

That is undoubtedly true.

The good taste that is generally conceded to exist among Boston men is also a possession of Boston women.

They make a sincere effort to be attractive without being spectacular or ostentatious.

Tradition and culture have much to do with the refinement that is apparent to anyone who spends a half-hour in a Boston street.

But there is another reason. Because of our diversified climate and its four distinct seasons, this is a FOUR-HAT city at least.

No style-conscious Boston woman would think of wearing the same hat the year around, as some women in other parts of the country are wont to do.

Miss or Mrs. Boston has a hat for Spring, another for Summer, another for Autumn and still another for Winter.

The result is that she is a much better judge of hats than a woman living in another State or nation. She doesn't have to guess what will look well. She knows.

On the Side

THE NEWSPAPERMAN'S prayer is "All I ask, Dear Lord, is that I may be in a town where there is plenty of news and have a job on a newspaper that will print it" . . . What was the worst picture of 1939? My Nomination is Bing Crosby in "Paris Honeymoon." If they had quadruple feature shows that film would be the weak spot on any program . . . Jimmy Stewart, following doctors orders, drank eight ice cream sodas a day to put on weight. Seems to be a lot more fun putting on weight than taking it off . . . Prune juice is said to be the leader now in breakfast drinks. My drink for breakfast is orange or grape-fruit juice, but I go for a dish of prunes every morning . . . New York City policewomen get $50 to start and can work up to $75 a week in five years. Most of them are married.

WHY DON'T THEY make the distance between street car seats greater? So a tall guy can have a little comfort . . . Men can't seem to get together on what to wear in the summertime. How about a dark blue lightweight coat cut like a dinner jacket and white flannel pants for evening and lighter, smarter garb for work and play?

A MINOR CAUSE of war is that men appear more glamorous and have more appeal to the female sex when in uniform . . . Listen to Adolf Hitler: "A decision by majority vote never means a victory for reason, but for unreason, mediocrity, uncertainty, weakness and cowardliness." This shows what Der Fuehrer really thinks of the German people . . . France had an air force in 1794. A balloon corps. It was successful at the Battle of Gosselies. But Napoleon abolished it.

WHEN A PRESIDENT has been elected how about everybody forgetting party differences until the next election. Let's all get behind the people's choice and get the country on its feet. If we can't make a go on what nature has given us to work with in this country then let us all admit we are pretty stupid people . . . If you see a woman wearing high-heeled shoes with slacks you can be assured her mind is practically blank. No more certain sign of a female dumb-bell exists.

GLORIFYING THE MALE OF THE SPECIES
"Let Summertime Clothes Be Lighter," Durling Advises

SO IT HAS been discovered, the Germans are making high-grade fuel for planes from potatoes. Was reported in this department long ago Germans were making automobile fuel from potatoes. I recall saying that when I got my ranch I was going to grow potatoes, manufacture auto fuel and retail it under the slogan "Potatoline for Power."

MANY CITIES are demanding the resignations of school teachers who marry. Seems a silly idea to me. A married woman with children of her own makes a much better teacher than some single dame whose mind is on everything but her work and who has no experience in handling youngsters. Besides, good school-teachers are hard to find. When you get a good school teacher, keep her, says I.

Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt

-:- -:- MY DAY

WASHINGTON, May 13—The news that Holland and Belgium had been invaded came over the radio on Friday morning, but I could not write about it that day.

I had a curious sense of having lost the last vestige of hope that the imprint of civilization still made any dent on certain parts of the world. Just as I had feared, the "protection" turned again into aggression.

Dorothy Thompson's column a few days ago, in which she analyzed the psychological unpreparedness of democracies, as well as their physical unpreparedness, was very interesting to me. I think she is entirely right that the two go together.

They mean that we, in the democracies, have prepared ourselves for a civilized, peaceful world, and we have almost forgotten that a bandit may turn up who does not understand our language nor hold to any of our beliefs. There is little use in looking backwards.

We have to face the realities of the present, and move step by step along a twisting way hoping that we act in the best way for the preservation of our civilization.

THE PRESIDENT made his speech to the Pan-American scientific congress Friday night at a very serious moment, and his feelings reflected themselves in all he said. But I felt no less serious as I faced the boys in the Choate School chapel that noon.

All these young things, knowing so little of life and so little of what the future might hold! A cruel world to face, and for us an uncertain one.

In so many nations today youth has to make no real decisions. Circumstances have made that unnecessary.

If you read Eva Curie's little book: "The Price of Freedom," you will realize how one bows with grace to the inevitable. For these youngsters of ours, however, there are decisions which have to be made step by step and uncertainty is difficult to face.

Many people say today that they want to live for democracy and I hope that in saying it they really know what they mean. To really mean that, here in this country, will require a firm determination to prove that democracy can work from the economic as well as from the political standpoint, and so, on two fronts, we will have to make decisions.

How to preserve the freedoms of democracy in a world that seems to be bent on destroying them, and how really to make democracy work at home and prove that it is worth preserving. These are two things to achieve.

These are the questions the youth of today must face, and we who are older must face them too.

Let us pray that we shall have the courage and the honesty to strive for the right whatever the cost.

MISS LOCKE CALLED 'TOO PERFECT'

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK, May 13—Katherine Locke, of "The Fifth Column," is one of the pupils of Benno Schneider, the drama coach. Miss Locke read some of Juliet's lines, from "Romeo and Juliet," and Schneider shook his head, saying: "Too experienced" . . . "But I've never played 'Juliet,'" said Miss Locke . . . "Too perfect," the drama coach continued. "You've said those lines to someone else, before this."

DRAMA DEPT.: Dashiell Hammett saw Julie Haydon sitting with George Jean Nathan, who has been her constant escort. "You like Nathan?" asked Hammett. "And does he like you? Well, I'll tell you what kind of a man Nathan is. Even George Bernard Shaw had to like Ibsen—before Nathan liked Ibsen."

BUSINESS DEPT.: Grace Moore and Lawrence Tibbett have a joint interest in a live poultry business, which they've just begun to operate. Miss Moore rushed from Fefe's Monte Carlo at 1 a. m. Thursday night, because she has to feed the chickens at dawn . . . "Where do you keep the chickens?" Miss Moore was asked . . . "At my place, in Connecticut," she informed. "Because of the cold-weather spell, I've had no place to keep them—so now they're all over my house."

MUSIC DEPT.: Vincent Youmans revealed this story: Some years ago he took a young lady to the Bossert Roof, in Brooklyn. While she went outside, to powder her nose, he thought of an idea for a song and, on the back of a menu, wrote the tune . . . He later included it in the score of "Smiles," but Marilyn Miller didn't like it—and so Youmans withdrew the song. The show closed, after a short run . . . A few copies of that song had been released, before the composer withdrew it to save it for another show. One of those copies went to England, where Ambrose, the bandleader, played it—resulting in orders for 5000 that first day. That song, written in Brooklyn while a girl powdered her nose, was re-introduced here as "the British song-hit." It was "Time On My Hands."

LOCAL NEWS: Henry Luce, who went to Europe last month, is in Amsterdam . . . Next week it will be her beloved Jitney Players, which she founded and which she has kept intact . . . It is barely a year since young Ethel decided to make a stab at being a singer . . . She has done quite well in return for the concentrated course of vocal training that fitted her for a solo appearance as a warbler . . . In two engagements based on her singing instead of her acting ability she recovered the cost of her studies.

"THE ROYAL FAMILY" STUFF is very, very good publicity . . . Nor is the background of the legend a mere myth . . . There was certainly a John Drew—Ethel's paternal grandfather—and a Maurice Barrymore, father of her mother . . . Grand old actors these, of the swashbuckling day of theatrics . . . And most certainly there were—and are—the three Barrymores, Ethel, Lionel and John . . . "But like any other family," Miss Colt explains, "we are all individual units. Uncle Lionel is three thousand miles away—most of the time . . . Mother and my brothers and myself make up our branch of the family. And my father. Although my parents are separated, we see father very often and it is all very friendly."

AS FOR "ARIEL AND CALIBAN" — that much-publicized union of Uncle Jack and the former Elaine Barrie Jacobs—one deduces that Miss Colt does not see so very much of that individual unit of the famous clan . . . She has seen their play, "My Dear Children," and no critic could give a more graphic expression of distaste—with a shrug and a grimace in punctuation—for the performance contributed to that public exhibition by the dark Elaine . . . But Ethel appreciates very much the advantage she has enjoyed by the accident of birth.

"WHEN I SANG IN BOSTON last I was not quite ready to let my voice speak—or sing—for itself," said Ethel. "I knew it was a strong soprano, but in retrospect it seems that I was apologizing for it being the sort of a voice it was . . . This time I am going about it differently . . . It's the only voice I have . . . I'll do the best I can with it." . . . Naturally, Miss Colt is hopeful that her audiences will like her . . . But her hole-card is her Jitney Players . . . She will not troupe

SEEK CO-STAR FOR LAUGHTON FILM

By Louella O. Parsons

Charles Laughton

HOLLYWOOD, May 13—RKO isn't going to get John Garfield for "They Knew What They Wanted" for the simple reason that Warners wanted Ginger Rogers for "The City of Conquest" on the swap—and that fell through. So RKO will have to go scouting for another homewrecker to break up the marriage of Charles Laughton and Carole Lombard in "They Knew What They Wanted" which is now titled "The Other Man."

Frankly, I was surprised to learn Warners were angling for Ginger for "City of Conquest" because I thought this co-starring role with Jimmy Cagney had fallen to Ann Sheridan. But now I hear it's a toss-up whether Annie goes into the Cagney picture or into Capra's "The Life of John Doe."

BINNIE BARNES

In the meantime John Garfield begins his trek back to the coast by motor May 14 — right after his show, "Heavenly Express" closes in New York. He'll start work immediately on his own home lot in "Fiesta in Manhattan" by Charles Kaufman.

A LINE OR TWO: The first thing Bette Davis will do on her return from Honolulu Friday is get her hair dyed black. No, Bette isn't pulling a Hedy Lamarr but Warners want her to look entirely different in "The Letter" than she does in the sympathetic "All This and Heaven, Too" . . . Slapsie Maxie is throwing a party in honor of Elsa Maxwell—he says just to show her how a party should be given. Elsa has accepted and who knows—maybe Elsa will give Maxie some pointers on fighting.

SNAPSHOTS OF HOLLYWOOD: Akim Tamiroff, that swell character actor, has been sicker than anyone outside his immediate family knows; Madeleine Carroll has lost 14 pounds on a special calory diet; Binnie Barnes' new hat created such a furor that when she walked into the Grace Hayes Lodge everyone applauded.

• • •

JIMMIE STEWART has a standing date to take Olivia De Havilland flying in his plane every Sunday; Peggy Moran and Joseph Pasternak are no longer seeing eye to eye; Kenny Baker's gift to his wife on their seventh wedding anniversary was a diamond clip with the lucky seven in rubies; Gloria Jean certainly missed the influence of her discoverer, Joe Pasternak, in "If I Had My Way." She didn't have half the charm, nor did she sing as well as she did in "The Under Pup." In her next, "A Little Bit of Heaven," she will have Professor Pasternak by her side again.

More news about Hollywood by Louella O. Parsons on the amusement pages.

TWO-MINUTE STORY

OLIVE was by his side, dressed in pale blue, just as she had been the first day that he had met her; just as she had been the day they were married in that little brown church on the hill.

Olive had come to him at last! He had been thinking of her constantly ever since his illness. From the beginning of his delirium her name was on his lips.

But now she was standing right at his bedside, holding his pale thin hand, and smiling down into his eyes just like she used to do a little over a year ago.

He tried to tell her how he regretted the past, but the sharp pains in his chest and the coughing spasms made every attempt futile.

But in his own mind the past was presenting unpleasant memories which stinged his brain like the fever singed his body.

MIKE'S WORDS flashed across his mind, "Don't let a woman tie you down, Ted. Next time she starts kicking, walk out on her like I did Sally."

Mike seemed to be happy leading a bachelor's life, so if Mike could get along without Sally, guess he could get along without Olive.

But life without Olive was not so easy as he had imagined. He missed Olive, he needed Olive, Olive was indispensable. He had never realized this before. He hoped that it was not too late. But Olive must be willing to forgive, or she would not be by his side now.

"Olive, my darling," he murmured inaudibly. He squeezed her cool hand until it seemed to melt into his own feverish flesh.

"It's O. K. Ted, we'll start over."

It was Olive's sweet voice. He opened his eyes. The blueness of Olive's dress seemed to stand out in a mist. He rubbed his eyes, as a final attempt to clear his vision. He saw a shadow of blue fade into the whiteness of the room.

"Olive, Ol--ive," he called feebly, at the same time giving a desperate leap to grab her.

HE OPENED his eyes wider to find two nurses by his side, holding him in bed.

"Where's Olive," he asked.

The two nurses looked at each other in amazement. They nodded at each other, knowing that pneumonia is a disease of strange fantasies.

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

ELEANOR ROOSEVELT, on the premiere of her new radio program, said something that must have startled many a woman listener. Telling of the various reasons for her constant traveling, she gave, as one of her strongest motives, the need "to get away from the ease of the White House."

Life in our No. 1 Home, she explained, was too smoothly efficient - too effortless for any Top Lady occupant who wanted to preserve her wallop and self-respect. Wherever one turned there were smiling faces, willing hands, amiable tongues. All bent on pleasing.

But such pleasantness, said she, was dangerous for Americans who must take their place in the rough and tumble of everyday life. If one would stay fit and lean, they had best stick to the common trail—face the common challenges and adjustments.

I WONDER how many feminine listeners agreed with that statement, off hand. My guess is—not many! We're fairly well sold on the idea of Comfort, we American women.

We like to provide it for our men folk and youngsters—and we're not at all adverse to draping a nice, thick padding of it around ourselves whenever we can.

Push buttons are our pet gadgets — Labor Saving Devices our religion. "Heads down on Pose." The notion must have stunned completely screwball to many of the sisterhood. And yet —

Mrs. Roosevelt was right. Far be it from me to advise everyone to go out and spat their own breakfast kindling . . . or break the ice in the wash bowl for the morning dip-and-scoot. I've done both and I've no illusions about certain aspects of Ye Simple Life.

Yet I also know that Ease is rapidly becoming America's Public Enemy No. 1. Ease can demoralize you more quickly and thoroughly than any amount of hardship. Moreover, it's absolutely harder to fight.

IF YOU WANT to stay capably and vigorously alive these days you must get out where the battles begin.

You must climb down from your high chair, throw away your fear of failure, expose yourself to energies and challenges, criticism and competition.

Tackle life as it actually is, sans any pretty illusions and pouty prejudices. Or go dead from the neck up — AND REALLY!

Britton, De Fee Howard's Stars

Sherry Britton and Lois DeFee, billed as "Broadway's newest glamour-girl" and "the queen of the Amazons," respectively, share the spotlight in the new burlesque revue opening today at the Old Howard.

Sherry Britton

The advance word is that the show is fast, funny and eye-soothing.

The fun is in charge of a trio of burlesque's favorite comics Jack Diamond with his original bag of tricks; Hap Hyatt, the 365-pound laugh-provoker, and Looney Lewis, otherwise known as the "Dizzy Nut."

Prominently spotted on the bill are Nora Ford, who returns by popular request, and Jean Carter, the fetching little dancer.

Others in the cast are the Four Ambassadorettes, the sensational European athletes; Ethel DeVeaux, Maxine Kaden, Lane and Grace Shaw, George Rose, Connie Hart, Dudley Douglas, Bernie Miller, the dancing team of Neville and Day, and a chrous of 30 song-and-dance girls.

Screen attractions are "Heart of the North," with Gloria Dickson and Dick Foran, and "Back Door to Heaven," co-starring Michael Whalen and Patricia Ellis, plus the unusual comedy shorts and newsreels.

The three daily shows at the Old Howard start at 12 m., 2:30 and 8:30 p. m. Every Friday night there is a special midnight show, starting at 11:30 p. m.

Nina Nixon At Gayety

The Gayety's new burlesque revue, "Not Tonight, Daddy," has Nina Nixon for its bright, particular star.

Nina Nixon

There has never been any criticism of Miss Nixon's footlights personality nor her curvalinear dimensions. She is also a talented burlesque artist, which would seem to indicate that the Gayety's current show has something there.

Assisting charmers are Nadine Matah, Louise Stewart, the Mitchell Sisters and the 30 delectable members of the chorus. Heading the comedy division are Eddie 'Nut' Kaplin and Jimmie Pinto, supported by Al Golden, Jack Shaw, Stan Simmons, George Wilson, Lyons and Dale and a flock of other comics.

On the screen are "The Real Glory," with Gary Cooper, and "The Lone Wolf Strikes," with Warren William.

JUNE ST. CLAIR
Stars at the Globe

Globe Offers Gala Revue

Thanks to the come-hither attractions of June St. Clair, the Globe Theater is doing most satisfactory business at the box office this week.

Miss St. Clair, who terminated a most successful engagement at Colissimo's in Chicago before coming to Boston, is one of the best-liked entertainers ever to play at this popular burlesque house.

Others in the footlights' cavalcade of charmers are June Marshall, Freida West, Faith Arlington and the 30 Bernardettes.

In control of the laugh-making departments are Jack Greenman, Johnny D'Arca, Ned Welsh, Merrill Sevier, Harry Ryan and Billy Fields.

Vaudeville features include the Six Men of Melody with Julie Starr, the Bolero Blitzers, the Bipedestal Trio and the Congo Cocas.

Screen attractions are "Under Pressure" and "Lancer Spy."

An added feature on Thursday night, final night for the present show, will be the weekly radio amateurs' contest held on the Globe stage with the audience sitting in as judges.

Shubert Stars Attend Opening

Jimmy Durante, Ray Bolger, Jane Froman and others of the "Keep Off the Grass" company, have promised to quaff a zombie at tonight's opening of the Beachcomber Restaurant on Boylston st.

Formerly known as The Commons, the restaurant has been converted into an exotic jungle retreat by means of bamboo, palm trees, hibiscus flowers and other tropic vegetation. In this romantic South Seas setting, Bostonians will have the opportunity to drink the liquid dynamite known as the zombie when they are not dancing to three bands—tango, rhumba and Hawaiian.

Other "Keep Off the Grass" performers attending tonight's premiere will be Betty Bruce, Virginia O'Brien, Ilka Chase and the comic wosome of Nan Rae and Maude Davis.

SARA ALLGOOD GIVES BRILLIANT PERFORMANCE AT WILBUR

Excellent Cast Support Star

By PEGGY DOYLE

"The Hands of the Clock" moved slowly the other night at the Plymouth, despite a truly brilliant performance by the Abbey Players' first actress, Sara Allgood, and complete co-operation from a fine supporting cast.

London saw the Percy Robinson drama 12 years ago as "To What Red Hell" and again in 1930. The current version, we are told, has been considerably revised but not enough to step up its slow-motion technique. There is a ring-around-the-rosy aimlessness about its "steady, old fellow" dialogue which contrives to caricature the play's essentially dramatic idea.

Not even Miss Allgood's magnificent performance is able, except occasionally, to outmount the flagrant inadequacies of a script that is impeded by talk that lacks bite and freshness.

The great Irish actress appears in but three scenes, and she is so warmly human, so genuinely anguished as the Irish mother, whose son is convicted of a murder he did not commit, that you forget she is acting.

With the same genius that made her Juno (she and Barry Fitzgerald, another great, recently co-starred in Shean O'Casey's play, "Juno and the Paycock," when it was revived on Broadway) one of the finest portrayals of the American stage, she gives to the tortured Mrs. Nolan a poignancy and universality that chalks up another classic performance for this distinguished actress.

As the youth who did commit the murder, Richard Waring, a competent young actor, does as well as can be expected with an unwieldy, talky and occasionally maudlin characterization.

As Timmie Nolan who must pay for a crime he did not commit, Frank Maxwell gives a sincere and understanding performance.

Effective, too, are the portrayals of Reynolds Denniston, Reginald Mason, Laurence C. O'Brien, Hale Norcross, Wallis Clark and Valerie Cossart.

Hollywood Notes

—By LOUELLA O. PARSONS—

HOLLYWOOD, May 13—Sol Lesser must be very happy that he finally put Martha Scott into "Our Town," for to him goes the credit for having discovered a great femme find. Martha was so good in the stage play that I kept nagging both Sol and Sam Woods, the director, to give her a chance to play the role in the movies she created on the stage. What a magnificent job she does. Also what a picture.

Dorothy Lamour and Robert Preston are co-starred in the Paramount technicolor production, "Typhoon," due at the Metropolitan theater on Thursday.

Dorothy Discards Sarong For 'Lava Lava' in 'Typhoon'

"Typhoon" in technicolor and Dorothy Lamour in less than ever are coming to the Metropolitan screen on Thursday.

Miss Lamour, who began her cinematic career in "Jungle Princess," Max Marcin's story of a South Seas maiden who was brought up virtually alone on an island and who didn't see a man until she was well over her twenty-first birthday, should be quite at home in "Typhoon."

"Typhoon" has for its locale a small island in the Dutch East Indies pearling grounds. It takes its title from the seasonal storms that lash these waters, one of which forms the climax.

In "Jungle Princess," Miss Lamour discovered the sarong. In "Typhoon," her "lava lava" goes the sarong one better. It is a Polynesian garment even briefer than a sarong.

Robert Preston, Miss Lamour's romantic interest in "Typhoon," wears a "pareu," which is the masculine equivalent to the lady's bright brevity.

The story introduces the heroine, as a 10-year-old girl and sole survivor on a lonely shore as a sailing ship captained by her father founders. Years elapse, and the scene shifts to a nearby island, where Robert Preston, discharged from the navy, is a derelict befriended only by his old pal, Lynne Overman.

Lynne has a submarine with which he hunts pearls. When he and Bob brawl with a powerful native chief, they must flee on the submarine to save their lives. Lack of oil forces them to abandon ship on a strange isle—which proves to be Dorothy's.

When things look blackest, nature takes a hand.

The second feature, "Opened By Mistake," is a Paramount production featuring Charlie Ruggles, Janice Logan, Robert Paige and William Frawley.

Tobin Urges Giant Army, Navy Defense

Cooking

Carrots Are Important

By MARTHA LEE

Learn to care for carrots, if you don't already. Once credited with making the hair curly, making it red, and even making it grow, eminent derivationists now believe that "carrot-top" is a condensation from "carrots are tops!" Carrots, logically enough, are full of carotene, which is another way of getting at vitamin A, not to mention their sugar, mineral-salt and vitamin content.

Carrots come two ways: bunched and cut. Bunched ones cost more than cut ones, and the difference is that cut carrots are the ones which are allowed to grow until they are fully matured and strangely enough, get more carotene that way. Pick your carrots carefully; beware of the carrot of the shrivelled, wilted, flabby complexion it lacks flavor. Lean instead toward firm, smooth, well-shaped ones of good color and crisp, green tops

GLAZED MINT CARROTS

2 buches carrots (12)
4 tbsp. cooking oil
¼ cup sugar
6 sprigs mint, cut fine

Wash and scrape carrots. Dice. Cook in boiling salted water until tender. Drain. Heat cooking oil in frying pan; add carrots, mint, and sugar. Cook slowly until carrots are coated with syrup (about 15 minutes.) Makes six servings.

SUNRISE SALAD

2 cups orange and grapefruit sections
2 ripe bananas, sliced
Salad greens
2 raw carrots
French dressing

Use ripe bananas (yellow peel flecked with brown.) Combine orange and grapefruit sections, draining off all juice except one or two tablespoons to be poured over bananas. Pile fruit in lettuce cups or on mixed salad greens. Grate raw carrot over mixture; serve with French dressing. Serve immediately, or keep in refrigerator until ready to serve. Makes six to eight servings.

CARROT RING

Cook 2 pounds boiled carrots, drain, and put through meat grinder or mash well. Add ½ cup butter and salt and pepper to taste. Place in greased 1-quart ring mold, set mold in pan of hot water until ready to serve. Turn out on hot platter and fill center with cooked dressed spinach, peas, or lima beans. Makes 6 servings.

Note: Add one tablespoon onion juice to ground carrots, if desired.

Smart Set Fashions

CAREFREE summer feet will pad around in the most comfortable shoes in the world . . . low, wedge-lifted . . . capeskin soft as your pet gloves . . . hopsacking and terry that are colorful as well as comfortable . . . and the shades, brilliant or pastel, are a story in themselves! All these summer shoes from a Boston shop . . . only $1.98 a pair . . . are described in the story below.

Footloose and Fancy Free

BY ANNICE BRINK

NEVER have there been so many smart, style-right, colorful casual shoes for a footloose summer! We found these in a Boston shop which claims to have an unprecedented assortment of gay and giddy footwear of this type, and most of them priced at $1.98!

Top, like a dancing slipper is the heelless wedge slip-on of pastel capeskin . . . yellow and brown, blue and white or light blue, with a leather sole.

From top to bottom, second shoe, a crepe high-wedge sandal . . with contrasting leather strap and trim . . . in multi-colored stripes and white, or royal and powder blue, red, white and blue, rust and beige.

Next, a glorified moccasin with a comfortable lifted heel that still feels "flat" . . . an open-toe moccasin of white with red Tyrolean-type drawstring . . . or blue or brown on white. Very snappy!

Gaily striped terry cloth semi-oxford, with high wedge, at the bottom.

FOR SHOPPING INFORMATION on these summer play shoes . . . phone our fashion department, LIBerty 4000, week-days until 5:30, except Saturday, or write.

Revolutionary Dry Shampoo Gives Sparkle, Fragrance

BY ARLINE GOULD

THERE'S AN in-between-shampoo look to hair that any fastidious girl, bent on glamour without end, bemoans and dreads. It's too soon for another shampoo . . . the hair is wispy, separates and looks thin . . . and it's so terribly important to have it look fresh and fluffy!

Here's the answer: A dry shampoo which is revolutionary both both in ingredients and method of application!

Hot air dryers are apt to induce oil glands to quicker action . . . that's why your smart, new coiffure often looks lank even two days after it's been set. Naturally over-oily hair is a great tribulation, we know. For four cents a "miniature shampoo" and a few minutes of your time the hair is made fresh and fluffy, and the coiffure lasts longer, looks much, much more beautiful! It's $1 for a 30-shampoo shaker cylinder, with a white towelling mitt for application included.

Invalids a-bed can look beautifully groomed this exertion-less way . . . if you have a cold, and a soap and water shampoo would make it worse, this is your dish . . and when you're traveling, far from your hairdresser, keep your hair looking gossamer-fluffy and sparkling clean this simple way!

Hair oils absorb unpleasant odors and smoke, you know, and this shampoo removes their taint instantly.

It's even new and different to look at. Extremely soft and fluffy, it has an extraordinary power of absorbency . . . as you will find out to your amazement when you see the grime and oil it absorbs from your hair!

In applying it, put the mitt on your right hand and sprinkle the powder on it. Take a small lock of hair at a time, and rub the dry shampoo powder through it . . . use very little . . . go over the entire hair, bit by bit, or just the front of it if you require fluffing-up there . . . And then turn the mitt inside out, shake it, and remove the powder! Give your hair a good brushing to finish.

If you'd like to learn all about this revolutionary new dry shampoo powder and the towelling mitt for application, both for $1, phone Arline Gould, LIBerty 4000, week-days except Sundays until 5:30, or write, inclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

THE POPS went formal last evening . . . Instead of the usual clink of glasses, low murmur of voices and patter of waitresses' feet during hte playing of popular musical tunes, everyone sat in rapt attention while Tauno Hannikainen, noted Finnish conductor, led the orchestra in a beautiful symphonic program . . .

The concert was a benefit for Finnish relief sponsored by many prominent Boston music lovers . . . and the S. R. O. sign was hung out at Symphony Hall long before the fashionable audience arrived to fill the hall to the rafters . . .

Mrs. Morton P. Prince, one of the energetic committee members for the affair, was an early arrival . . . her simple black dinner gown brightened by an American Beauty ostrich feather cape . . . Mrs. Albert C. Titcomb wore a summery black and white chiffon gown and Mrs. John E. Yerxa, who helped Mrs. Winslow McCagg select a bevy of attractive usherettes to hand out programs, wore a striking outfit of black and white printed chiffon with a long black faille coat lined with the print . . . Diamonds and pearls added a lavish touch to her costume.

Mrs. Titcomb's daughter, Betty, is the first we've seen sponsoring the new fad for shawls featured in a national magazine last week . . . Her black gown had a short fitted jacket embroidered with gay colors and her scarlet shawl was worn like a hood over her fair hair . . .

Receiving many warm greetings were Mary Fuller and her fiance, Bob Henderson, whose engagement was announced a week ago . . . Mary wore a white chiffon gown with a black and white printed bodice and wide red belt . . . Huge white orchids added a festive touch to her mother's strawberry pink chiffon and lace gown . . . Ruby throated white orchids, a Mother's Day present from her daughter, Mary, formed Mrs. Francis Hastings' corsage, and her cousin, Mrs. Albert McGowan of London and Boston, wore a little hat of bluebird wings with her tucked black satin dinner gown . . .

He was among the guests coming on from a dinner party given by Mr. and Mrs. Prince and Mr. and Mrs. Titcomb in honor of John Mattson, Finnish vice-consul, and Mrs. Mattson . . .

Among the many younger music lovers in the throng were the newleywed Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Boylston Adams (Ramelle Cochrane), Mr. and Mrs. Ernest B. Dane, Jr., who shared a table with Marie Stevenson and her escort . . . Mr. and Mrs. J. Burke Wilkinson arrived in a foursome with Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Dupee, Jr., and Doris Foote was a colorful figure in a gay printed crepe gown with a cape of green brocade . . .

Guess on Clock, And Win Prize

How long does an eight-day clock run with one winding?

Your guess is as good as anyone's and if you win, you have a chance to share in $30 in prizes and 30 pairs of tickets to the stage drama "Hands of the Clock," which opened at the Plymouth Theater Saturday night.

On Friday, at 1:15 p. m. daylight time, Jimmy Durante started an eight-day clock in the window of the Kay Jewelry Co. store on Washington st., and the Record-American contest entitled, "The Hands of the Clock," was on.

All you have to do to enter the contest is to guess the date, hour and minute the clock will stop when it runs down.

Send in your guess to Kay's, postmarked no later than midnight Wednesday, May 15, and watch the Record-American for announcement of winners.

First prize is $15, 2nd prize $10, and 3rd prize $5. Thirty pairs of tickets to the show will be awarded to the runner-ups.

In addition to the cash and ticket awards, all mothers by the name of Nolan—one of the principal characters in the play is named Nolan—will be admitted to the Thursday, May 16, matinee for half the admission price.

After the show, Sarah Allgood, starred in the show, will play host at a tea on the stage to the mothers.

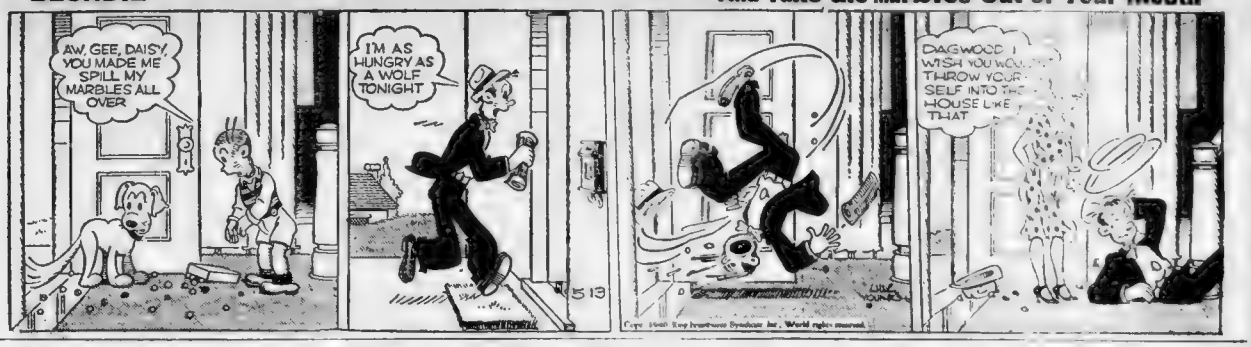
BLONDIE —And Take the Marbles Out of Your Mouth



AW, GEE, DAISY, YOU MADE ME SPILL MY MARBLES ALL OVER
I'M AS HUNGRY AS A WOLF TONIGHT
DAGWOOD I WISH YOU WOULD THROW YOURSELF INTO THE HOUSE LIKE THAT

IN SPITE of her Southern fluffiness, Mama was quite practical—and in private, extremely frank. "You'll meet lots of rich young men," rejoiced Mama when their kinfolk up North, the wealthy and childless Daltons, invited Dorothea to spend six months with them on their big country estate.

The Cast of Characters in "Mama's Girl"

MAMA, who wants her daughter to make a good marriage.
DOROTHEA, the daughter, with her own idea of what a good marriage is.
JOHN DAVIS, a young gardener.
DRAKE WYDHAM, whose interest is trees—but family trees.

Mama's Girl

By Isabel Johnston

"It's your chance to make a good marriage," was Mama's theme song as she cut and basted and fitted, helping Dorothea make an outfit that wouldn't disgrace their wealthy kin. Like a speculator plunging on a good investment, Mama ran up bills for the best materials at the drygoods store, insisting that a girl couldn't make a good match without the proper clothes.

"It's your chance to get a good husband" Mama repeated again and again as she packed Dorothea's pretty clothes carefully with tissue paper in the shabby suitcase and trunk.

"Or get a job, maybe," Dorothy suggested timidly.

Actually, Dorothea wanted a husband, a home and children much more than she wanted to type in an office. Besides, she didn't know how to type.

On a widow's pension, Mama hadn't been able to send Dorothea to college or a business school. But Dorothea could cook and sew—and she'd had lots of practice keeping house on a pinched budget. Her jellies were as good, or better, than Mama's.

Maybe she could get one of those home economics jobs she'd read about in magazines—just in case she didn't find a husband immediately.

Never having met Cousin Henry and Cousin Flo, she didn't want to fail them—or Mama—by becoming an old maid in six months. Before getting off the train, she made her pretty curls prettier than ever and donned her most becoming dress, so they wouldn't think marrying her off would be difficult.

FEW ELIGIBLES

In spite of the big limousine in which they met her at the station, in spite of the mile drive from the gates of the estate to the big mansion, in spite of the stately rooms and the tall butler, the Daltons were so simple and unassuming and warm-hearted, Dorothea felt at home with them at once.

Cousin Henry was tickled pink with the home-made jellies Dorothea had carefully carried right side up on the long train trip. Cousin Flo was ecstatic over the hand-embroidered pillow cases. They had fried chicken and corn bread for dinner the first night so that Dorothea wouldn't be homesick.

Within a week, Dorothea realized that there weren't going to be many eligibles.

No rich young men, apparently no young men of any kind at all. Even the household staff was middle-aged, except for young John Davis, the head gardener, who kept bachelor quarters in the tiny cottage on the edge of the estate.

Cousin Henry was retired and no handsome junior partner came to the house. The Daltons had friends, lots of them, rich and distinguished, too, but they were all middle-aged and married—and often downright elderly.

The week-end house guests were judges, retired couples, portly heads of foundations with dowager wives. Dorothea began to think all rich people were old

Dorothea wrote Mama about the dinner parties she attended, magnificent affairs on the estates of country neighbors and at the Daltons', too. But white heads and gray heads and bald heads gleamed imposingly around the damask-covered tables. There were times when Dorothea felt that at 19, she should be still eating upstairs in the nursery.

Not that Dorothea wasn't happy—and busy, too. Mornings, she worked in the greenhouse, with John Davis teaching her all about rare flowers. She made friends with the cook and baked cakes for cousin Henry's sweet tooth, and sometimes, a tiny pie or cookies for John Davis, too. He explained horticulture so patiently to her.

MAMA IS CURIOUS

Cousin Flo took her to Garden Club meetings and Community Drives where she met lots of lovely ladies. Cousin Henry taught her golf at the country club, where she met any number of jolly, fatherly and grandfatherly gentlemen.

At cousin Henry's suggestion, John Davis showed her how to drive the station wagon by herself. Once a week, she took her turn and served as hostess at the Village Woman's Exchange in the Community House.

How she wished she could make pies and cakes and jellies to sell there, too! But it didn't seem gracious to suggest using her hostess' kitchen for commercial purposes.

In her letters, Mama began asking pointed questions about young men. She was sure her baby child was having lots of fun, but naturally she was eager to hear details.

Surely some of cousin Henry's rich friends and neighbors had sons?

Because of the drygoods bill for dress materials, Dorothea hated to tell mama most of the rich neighbor's sons were working up from the bottom in the oil fields in Texas, learning the automobile business in Detroit or squandering the parental wealth in bachelor flats and night clubs in New York.

So she filled her letters with descriptions of linen and silver and menus.

But, in spite of her Southern fluffiness, mama was smart. Between the lines of Dorothea's letters she read a serious shortage of young men.

In an effusive note to Cousin Flo, thanking him for all they were doing for her baby child, mama must have mentioned that it was the duty of a young girl to meet eligibles—and she was so glad visiting the Daltons gave her Dorothea the chance.

For several days Cousin Henry and Cousin Flo acted guilty and conscience-smitten, and ended by giving a house party — with five unattached men, two of them actually only 40 years old. But during the week end a charming widow and a smart divorcee, both in the late thirties, captured these possibilities.

A gentleman of 50 gallantly insisted on instructing Dorothea in Bridge. But, on the comfortable, relaxed Monday after it was all over, the Daltons seemed quite pleased when Dorothea said "her young man" of the week-end was a trifle bald and fat.

Cousin Henry said Dorothea was too young to settle down. Cousin Flo hoped she would stay with them a long, long time.

But Dorothea knew mama would not let her waste more than six months on an unprofitable field, and, besides, mama's family pride and honor did not permit a daughter of hers to accept hospitality indefinitely from her wealthy kin.

Spinsterhood loomed two months ahead—and then Drake Wyndam week-ended at his mother's!

"There was actually a young man at the dinner party," Dorothea confided to John Davis as she watered her plants in the greenhouse, "I think he was glad there was someone else young there, too."

"Dorothea, you don't mean . . ." He spoke with agitation, "Dorothea . . . will you . . . Dorothea, you wouldn't marry me?"

"Good looking?" John Davis demanded rather curtly.

"Oh yes!" Dorothea said thankfully, "and only 32 years old."

"Humph!" muttered John Davis and was taciturn the rest of the morning.

After meeting Dorothea, Drake Wyndam visited his mother every week. And he thought he was old enough to be getting married, as he told Dorothea, and as she wrote Mama at once.

"I'm at an age when a man should be married," he told her in the music room, "I've played around long enough."

"A girl likes fun, too," said Dorothea thoughtfully. "But in her heart of hearts, she wants a good husband. One who'll give her security and educations for her children."

MAMA'S OWN

"When that time come, a good bit of money is coming to me from my family" he boasted.

It was almost a proposal, as Dorothea wrote Mama, except that Drake got side-tracked drawing a chart of his family tree.

An airmail from Mama breathed reproach. If she were a young girl leaning over the drawing of a family tree with a young man, she would squeeze his arm in exuberance, let her hair brush his cheek accidentally or mention a rival, even a fictitious one. She hoped Dorothea was Mama's own girl.

The last two months were vanishing and Drake spent so much time impressing Dorothea with his family history, talking so much about his family traditions and his family wealth, he never seemed to get around to asking her to marry him.

Mama was firm in refusing to let Dorothea accept the Dalton's pleas that she stay longer. Graciously Mama insisted on her longing to see her child. But Dorothea suspected Mama refused so definitely because she felt the threat of departure would bring Drake Wyndham to the point.

There was only one more week-end left—and Dorothea already had started packing, with Cousin Flo and Cousin Henry clinging to her almost tearfully—and even John Davis was disturbed.

"I hate to have you leave," he said abruptly as he helped her transplant a flower, "I hate never seeing you again."

Oh maybe you will see me often," Dorothea laughed happily, her fingers touching his accidentally as they worked over the plant, her hair almost brushing his cheek, "that is, if a certain young man gets up enough courage to propose."

"Dorothea, you don't mean . . ." He spoke with agitation. "Dorothea you wouldn't marry me?"

Weren't the Dalton's scandalized at having Dorothea marry their head gardner, Mama wrote Dorothea hauteurly. But the Daltons were delighted to think Dorothea would live right on their estate. They gave her a lovely outdoor wedding—and even Mama was impressed by the presents and the guests . . . after all, Dorothea was being married.

Quite happily Dorothea moved into her husband's cottage, where she had a kitchen all her own. Before the first baby came, she started making money from her jellies and banking it in a savings account for the education of her children. In some ways, Dorothea was even more Mama's girl than Mama ever realized.

HOW YOU CAN GET A $100 LOAN IF YOU CAN PAY BACK $6.41 A MONTH

Do you want to get a cash loan quickly and simply? At Household Finance you can borrow $20 to $300 without endorsers or guarantors, if you can make regular monthly payments. And you needn't even leave your own home to apply for the money you need. You may repay your loan on the installment plan which best fits your own purse.

Choose your own payment plan

Suppose you need $100 and can conveniently repay $9.75 a month. Your installments will repay a $100 loan in full in twelve months. Or, if you wish smaller payments, as little as $6.41 a month for twenty months will also repay a $100 loan.

See the sample loans and payment plans in the table. (Loans also made in other amounts and for other periods.) Note that you may make very small payments if you wish. Note also that the sooner you repay, the less your loan costs. Four monthly installments of $26.58 each, or a total of only $106.32, for instance, will repay a $100 loan in full. (Payments shown in the table include all charges.)

WE GUARANTEE the total amount figured by using this table to be the full amount you will pay, when payments are made on schedule. You will pay less if you pay your loan ahead of time since you pay charges only for the actual time you have the money. Payments include charges at Household's rate of 2½% per month. This rate is less than the maximum permitted by the Small Loan Law.

through New England this season, as she has in past summers.

"THERE IS TOO MUCH OPPOSITION in this section in the summer theaters," the Barrymore heiress explained . . . "In Hershey (Pa.), we have signed a contract which gives us more money for one appearance each week, on Tuesday, than we used to gross for a full week's work . . . And we have a little circuit worked out . . . We play at Bucknell one night, and in other central Pennsylvania towns other nights . . . It is nice to know at the end of the week that there is enough money in the box office to keep the sheriff away . . ." And with this simple, and unBarrymorean bit of philosophy, Miss Colt adjourned to the all-female precincts, at nine a. m., of the Charlotte Cushman Club, the Boston home for traveling stage girls which Ethel "adores."

ONCE OVER LIGHTLY: He may have declined the nomination, but Saltonstall-Secretary Carrol Meins —if we are being steered a-right— has been offered a job on the Boston Licensing Board . . . The one which Ed Gallagher now holds . . . If Councilor Daniel H. Coakley decides not to run again, (and that is not likely) City Councilor President William J. Galvin will take a shot toward promotion by the electorate . . . And Rep. George Leary, they say, is considering playing his West End strength against the vote-getting ability of Congressman Tom Flaherty . . . We may be prepared now for a wave of wisecracks about Hitler's "nerve-gas"

"MONTE PROSER'S BEACHCOMBERS" will open tonight, and although Mr. Proser's name is known to New York, it would appeal to this pillar as sensible to project the widely-known (locally) name of Tom Maren, who is a partner in the project . . . Ruby Foo, who thrives on celebrations, is preparing for the graduation of her pretty daughter, Doris Shong, who completes a course at Commercial Art School next month . . . Ruby has just launched her son, Earl, toward matrimony.

INFORMATION CORNER

QUERY: Is it all right just to send in the Answer Form for the week, which has been appearing Saturdays, or must I send in each individual daily puzzle?

REPLY: It is perfectly all right to send in the Weekly Answer Form alone, with your six solutions for the week filled in. If you use the Weekly Answer Form, the daily puzzles need not be sent in. On the other hand, if you prefer to send in the daily puzzles, properly filled in, then you don't have to use the Weekly Answer Form. Either way is equally satisfactory.

AUSTEN LAKE

Sox Plan Blitzkrieg Against the West

NEW YORK, MAY 13—JOSEPH EDWARD CRONIN, alias "The Brain," towelled his pink and perspiring person after the Sabbath game. "Well," he growled. "every day can't be Christmas."

AUSTEN LAKE

So today our pennant-perhaps are rolling toward the sunset with a goose-egg as the Yankees' parting gift instead of the lollypops which a summer Santa Claus has been stuffing in their sox. They didn't get any runs at all. They just batted a lot of pudding balls which a team of bloomer girls could have gobbled. Our boys went temporarily soft!

"Gummy kind of game," observed Cronin sourly.

It was! — Tracing perhaps to the nervous exhaustion in Saturday's contest when the athletes used up a week's emotion in a few hours of blitzkrieg baseball. It left them pretty limp! So today's lazy lolling in their west-bound Pullman will recharge their batteries.

It may be my morbid imagination, but the strain seems to be showing on Cronin, whose normally pink and white boyish face is beginning to show haggard hollows. And small wonder! The double duty of handling a key infield job and master-minding for his crop of jitter-pitchers would bring worry wrinkles to a less intense man than Joe.

Some 45 times during the 21 games played this season he has halted the action, waggled his leather pancake mitt toward the bull pen and summoned somebody to shoot his trouble. He's done it smartly! It's worked unusually well! But the mental effort of guessing for 30 other fellows has left its mark.

Sox Gimp Disappears Overnight

SUNDAY, FOR EXAMPLE, Joe poked around under the bench rubbish, towels and castoff coats and picked up Fritz Ostermueller to do the day's pitching job. Fritz looks wan! His face is peaked and boney from a spring-long siege of sinus. He walks like a man with a trunk on his back. But Cronin has used his pitching stock lavishly, so he assigned Fritz with the air of an executioner admonishing the victim "Mercy on your soul."

So Joe stood back on the infield dirt, while the Yankees built an increasing pressure on Fritz's custard pie ball, and kicked little puffs of dust.

The rest of the Red Sox lounged around in slack attitudes, like hired hands waiting to pitch another load of hay, nibbling grass roots and gazing at their toes. Their gimp was gone! The energetical whizz and spark of Saturday had momentarily leaked away.

Once Cronin tangled his feet in a ground ball, once Ted Williams wobbled after an outfield hit like a laundry lady with a washbasket on her hip, and once Roger Cramer dropped a simple pop fly like a tramp caught with a hot pie. So in the end poor, ailing Fritz was more sinned against than sinning.

AND AFTER IT WAS OVER the boys sat around the locker room swiggling from bottles of pop, peeling off their soggy woolens and

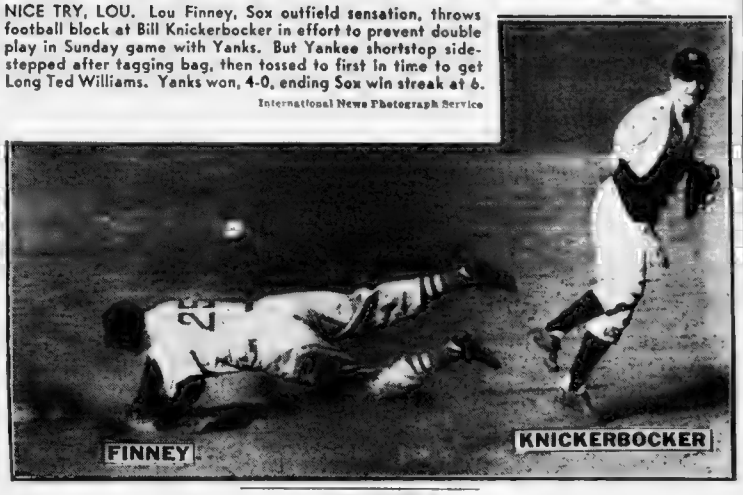
Red Sox Go West; Predict Yank Rise

NICE TRY, LOU. Lou Finney, Sox outfield sensation, throws football block at Bill Knickerbocker in effort to prevent double play in Sunday game with Yanks. But Yankee shortstop sidestepped after tagging bag, then tossed to first in time to get Long Ted Williams. Yanks won, 4-0, ending Sox win streak at 6.

International News Photograph Service



By JOE CASHMAN

EN ROUTE TO CHICAGO, May 13—Headed westward for their season's first swing around the wide open spaces, our league leading Red Sox carry with them a sneaking suspicion that the last-place Yankees are far from through as pennant contenders.

They concede that they were fortunate to win two out of three decisions in New York, to increase their lead over the members to 8½ games, and they expect that the McCarthymen, now that they've snapped their losing streak, will show steady improvement.

At the same time, the Cronin-men also carry West with them a firm conviction that they, themselves, are destined to finish on the roof this season.

Invading the hinterlands with a 1½ game lead over the second place Cleveland Indians, they don't promise to protect it all times while out there, but they're confident they'll still be setting the pace when they return to Boston a week from next Friday.

CLUB IN HIGH SPIRITS

Point out that 43 of their 62 losses last year were administered by their western rivals, and they'll answer that they won four more games than they lost out in the distant precincts, and they'll remind you, too, that they recently won seven out of nine from the White Sox, Browns, Tigers and Indians at the Fens, where the western jinx worked overtime against them a year ago.

So it is in high spirits that they set out to make their 1940 bow in Chicago, St. Louis, Detroit and Cleveland, in the order named.

When they lost to the Yanks yesterday, the Hose completed their 22nd game or one-seventh of the campaign.

Their record of 16 wins and but six defeats is something to write home about.

If they could keep up that gait all the way, they'd cross the wire with 112 victories, which, if it didn't give them a pennant, would be two more games than any club in American League history has ever won.

Yet it's far too early for the Back

BEES SEND SULLIVAN AFTER GIANTS FINAL

By BILL GRIMES

"I'm using a new system in selecting my pitchers," confessed Bill Terry, manager of the New York Giants, when queried as to whom he would start on the hilltop this afternoon at National League Field in the third and final game of the series with the Bees. "You may announce that Cliff Melton will be on the mound, but he won't be."

Dame Rumor has it Terry is saving his southpaws for Pittsburgh, so it is not likely he'll assign either Carl Hubbell or Melton to pitch the final game with the Bees.

Harry Gumbert "went" against the Dodgers last Friday, therefore it looks very much as if Terry would send Hal Vandenberg to the hilltop this afternoon.

SULLIVAN GOES TODAY

Although he hasn't any idea as to how many hurlers he'll use this afternoon, Manager Casey Stengel has come out flat footed that Joe Sullivan would be his starting pitcher.

Joe and his butterfly ball have been anything but a soft touch for the Bees' opponents this season, despite the fact that the southpaw has come up with but one victory in three starts.

Since they returned home, the Bees haven't been hitting up to the form they displayed on the road. They were held to five hits by Bill Lohrman on Saturday and gathered only nine "blows" off "Prince Hal" Schumacher and Walter Brown on the Sabbath.

The Bees didn't have a chance on Saturday due to the ineffectiveness of their hurlers, but Fedosi deserved a better break, for even in the face of ten hits the Giants made, he pitched a fine game.

The Giants broke into the run column in the third. Al Glossop started this round with a sharp single to right. After Schumacher struck out he raced around to third when Burgess Whitehead hit safely to right. Jo-Jo Moore hoisted a fly to Chet Ross, and Glossop trotted across the plate after the catch.

Then Demaree hit one between first and second for a clean single but the ball hit Whitehead on the heels, and the runner was automatically out, retiring the side.

A wild heave in the general direction of first base by Eddie Mil-

Fake Air Race Report Dupes Chicago Bookies

CHICAGO, May 13 (INS)—Chicago bookies were rather inclined to agree with certain crusading officials of the federal government who are demanding "something" must be done about the gambling evil.

The books were motivated, however, by slightly different impulses than federal officials. The story was just beginning to leak around that custodians of the horse parlors actually had paid off on two winners in one race, and with righteous indignation, the scratch sheet guardians were demanding that the practice be stopped immediately.

Behind it all lies this story: Since the federal government began its campaign to stamp out horse parlors by denying them telegraph and telephone service, information on winners has been received from some mysterious scource via radio loud speakers.

After the seventh race at Narragansett Saturday the speaker announced Mrs. Emil Denemark's King Cotton was winner. A short time later came the announcement King Cotton paid $14.40 to win, $5.80 to place, and $4 to show. As the betters crowded to the windows, the books dutifully paid off.

Twenty-five minutes later came a bulletin correction. King Cotton hadn't won after all, the speakers announced. Star of Padula headed the field with the same schedule of payoff prices. Again a contingent of bettors moved to the windows, and again the books paid.

The bookies were trying, with indifferent success, to argue the King Cotton "winners" into returning their gains.

Belmont Opens 24-Day Meet; 22 Stakes Set

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Belmont track, THE race track of the East, opens its gates today for a 24-day spring meeting, and for the first time this season metropolitan racing will assume its place of traditional importance.

Even when racing was at its lowest ebb hereabouts, Belmont preserved its place as a track noted for its beauty and its racing background.

Its program includes some of the oldest as well as the richest American stakes—the Belmont, for example, was run at Jerome Park in 1867. And the setting is such that it might be possible to go there just to enjoy the scenery and the races without even betting a dime.

SEE $2,000,000 HANDLE

Since young Alfred Vanderbilt, who also heads Pimlico, took charge at Belmont, the prestige of the track and the size of the purses has increased considerably.

At the spring meeting some $350,000 to $400,000 will go to horsemen in purses, and $121,500 of this will be added money for 22 stakes.

With the advent of mutuel betting, tried out first in New York at Jamaica, crowds of 50,000 on big days are considered quite likely and with 500 mutuel windows available a $2,000,000 handle is not impossible.

Boston Villanova Club Host to Varsity Nine

The Villanova Club of Boston will dine the Villanova varsity nine this evening at Hotel Lenox.

Feature of the evening's entertainment will be the presentation of the "Loyalty Plaque" to Judge Sabbatino of New York, class of 1915.

Present tonight will be the three varsity sports coaches, Clipper Smith, football; Ed Severance, basketball, and Doc Jacobs, baseball, whose team was to meet Boston College this afternoon at the Heights.

Mr. BOSTON

By JACK CONWAY

ALFRED VANDERBILT and Charles F. Adams were right . . . Bimelech is the best three-year-old in the world . . . Despite the defeat of Bimelech by Gallahadion in the Derby, Vanderbilt and Adams both insisted that Col. E. R. Bradley's thoroughbred would win the Preakness . . . He did and in very easy style . . . Freddy Smith was sitting on Bimelech doing a sight-seeing act coming down the stretch at Pimlico on Saturday . . . He didn't have anything more serious to think about than the spot he would select for his victory party.

I was glad Col. Bradley permitted Smith to ride Bimelech in the Preakness . . . Freddy was severely criticised for the way he rode Bimelech in the Derby . . . The Bradley horse was in trouble three or four times during the race, and easily lost six lengths as a result of that condition . . . The Bradley management made no attempt to place the blame for Bimelech's defeat in the Derby on Smith . . . It stated Smith rode according to orders, and ran into some bad racing luck.

In the Preakness, Smith hustled Bimelech out into the lead shortly after the break, and was in command from that point in the race . . . The sun is shining once more in dear old Kentucky as a result of the Bimelech victory in the Preakness . . . Unfortunately Bimelech's supporters in Kentucky didn't get rich on his victory in the Preakness . . . They went broke backing the Bradley horse as a sure thing in the Derby . . . Even though they live in the horse country, they overlooked the fact there is not such a thing as a sure thing in racing.

A horseman once confessed to me there are 52 ways in which a fixed race can be lost . . . Try and figure them out . . . I had a stray $2 riding on Bimelech . . . I don't like odds on favorites as a rule, but after having seen what happened in the Derby I could not conceive of how Gallahadion or any other Preakness horse could beat Bimelech.

Many Stings Needed Gansett Race

IT WAS APPARENT that Many Stings, who finished third in the Rhode Island Handicap at Narragansett Park on Saturday, needed the race to put him on edge . . . The LeMar Stock Farm's thoroughbred was a bit short, and will do better the next time he is out . . . Confiado, the winner, rated better than the third betting choice . . . He had won the Portsmouth Handicap over the same track two weeks previously . . . He also had the benefit of the veteran Wayne Wright as jockey . . . Wright flew to Providence the last minute to replace Jockey A. Schmidl as the rider of Confiado . . . Wright kept Confiado in the contention until reaching the final turn at the head of the stretch when he saved a great deal of ground by coming in on the rail to win.

Fred Browning, Texan horseman, has a financial interest in the contract of Lew Jenkins, Texas lightweight who became world's champion when he knocked out Lou Ambers in three rounds . . . Billy Ames believes that a bout between Jenkins and Henry Armstrong, world's welterweight champion, will draw between $400,000 and $500,000 . . . Billy used to manage boxers and also promoted ring contests, and keeps in close touch with the ring game despite his duties as director of publicity at Narragansett Park.

Hymie Caplan, manager of Jenkins, used to pilot Al Singer, former world's lightweight champion . . . It was due to Caplan's efforts that Jenkins was moved into the title bout with Ambers.

Sergeant Eddie Mack believes that the Jenkins knockout victory over Ambers will help create new interest in boxing.

"The public likes to see boxing upsets the same as they do the unexpected at the race track," said Mack.

The Sergeant took time out to remark that there may be an upset when Howell King and Coly Welsh battle at the Argonne A. A.'s show at Mechanics Building on Thursday night . . . Welsh rules an early favorite, but Mack says he wouldn't be surprised if King won.

Yanks Will Have to Do a Brass Monkey

THE YANKS WILL have to do a Brass Monkey if they are to win the American League pennant this year . . . Joe McCarthy's club has spotted all rivals liberal handicaps . . . George Holland will give Brass Monkey a hat full of losing mutuel tickets as a diet at the proposed party at one of the local night clubs . . . I prefer seeing my horses coming across the finish line of a race track in front.

Watch Dunade the next time out . . . Fanfare Farms' horse showed dazzling speed as he finished second to Confiado in the Rhode Island Handicap . . . It was a big day for Dave Wilson who had five winners at Narragansett and Bimelech in the Preakness . . . As Guest Handicapper in the Green Race Special of the Boston Evening American, Babe Rubenstein picked Wise Player who paid $25.50 to win . . . F. C. Dunn didn't think his horse had a chance of winning according to his friend Sargeant E. Mack . . .

ANGEL TACKLES CASEY

Steve Casey of Ireland will risk his $10,000 diamond studded belt and the world heavyweight wrestling championship when he meets The Angel in the main bout of a show to be promoted by Paul Bowser at the Garden tonight.

The Angel, most grotesque figure ever to bob into sports, has won more than 60 straight bouts since he came to this country from France.

The Angel uses what he calls a "bear hug" to pin his mat rivals. The great strength possessed by the Frenchman enables him to conquer his average opponents without much trouble.

WHIPPED BOXER

Casey is by far the best wrestler The Angel has ever met. Steve recently proved his versatility when he won from "Tiger" Warrenton, a heavyweight boxer, in a private mixed bout at the Garden.

Joe Louis has repeatedly refused to accept Casey's challenge for a mixed bout with a side bet of $100,000.

The Angel, at 280 pounds, will outweigh Casey, who scales 238 pounds. Steve, however, will have height and reach on the challenger, and he believes these assets will enable him to win.

Casey insists he has perfected a defense against the "bear hug," while The Angel believes he will stop Casey's "Killarny Flip."

Gus Sonnenberg, former world heavyweight wrestling champion, will be referee tonight. Gus was named as referee by Paul Bowser when Casey and The Angel could not agree on an official.

PROFESSOR AT BOUT

Many notables will occupy ringside seats, including Pro. Hooten of Harvard, who made a long study of the Angel when he first came to this country. He has since lectured about the man who looks like a throwback to the prehistoric cave days.

All kinds of talent is sprinkled throughout the supporting card, including three former world's champions who appear in special bouts.

These include Ed Don George, who faces Charley Strack; Yvon Robert, who takes on Ernest Franz Hefner, and Marvin Westenberg, who clashes with Bobby Managoff.

Preliminaries include Gene Pusie, former hockey star, vs. George Linehan; Ben Shalom vs. Billy Bartush; Jim Casey vs. Olag Olson and Rudy Dusek vs. Pedro Brazil.

MAIN BOUT

Steve (Crusher) Casey, Ireland, vs. The Angel, France.

SPECIAL BOUTS

Gene Pusie, Canada vs. George Linehan, Wayland.

Ben Shalom, Palestine, vs. Billy Bartush, Chicago.

Bishop Victor in Outboard Race

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Clayton Bishop established himself as one of the fastest Sunday drivers when he won the 130-mile Albany to New York outboard marathon after five hours, 30 minutes and 18 seconds of battling with the tricky Hudson River. It was his third victory in the grind.

When they lifted the 39-year-old Onset, Mass., pilot from his tiny boat, all he needed was a hickory stick and a beard to look like a refugee fro hte county old men's home.

GLENDA FARRELL SPEAKS

He was bent almost in two from hunching over the wheel and couldn't hear or speak.

He submitted weakly to the ceremonies attendant with the prize-presentation probably hearing not a word of the pretty speech made by Glenda Farrell, Cinema star.

Bishop, who is fire-chief in his home town, was hard-pressed by Charles Foster, Jr., of Peekskill, N. Y., an oil-burner xepert, who makes his living starting fires.

The 22-year-old Foster took his father along with him on the joyride, and the elder Foster, an engineer on the N. Y. Central Railroad, looked after the motor during the trip.

When it was all over, Foster, Sr., compained of the lack of a whistle on the boat, but otherwise he said he was pretty sure he was on the right track as the race progressed.

QUICK CHANGE

Bishop nearly came to grief at Irvington, N. Y., when his boat accumulated so much water from the spray kicked up my the following wind that it looked like a floating bathtub.

Luckily, a passing fisherman came along and towed the craft to shore where Bishop got rid of the water and changed his plugs.

Fred Jacoby of North Bergen, N. J., who has started in every race since 1929 and finished fourth yesterday, said the conditions were the worst he had ever encountered.

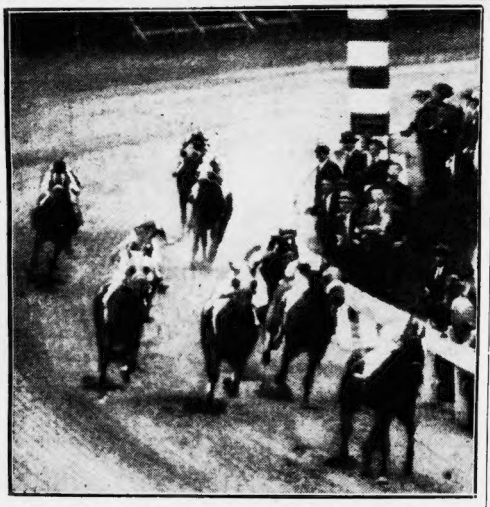
AS BIMELECH GAINED REVENGE IN PREAKNESS

BIMMY COMES BACK. Colonel E. R. Bradley's Bimelech gains revenge for his defeat by Gallahadion in the Kentucky Derby, in the $50,000 added Preakness. Upper left photo shows start of race, with field of nine breaking evenly from electric gate. Right: Around the first turn, Bimelech led every step of way after first 50 yards. International News Photograph Service



HOME STRETCH. Bimelech thunders into stretch tearing away from Mioland and Gallahadion. Bradley horse won by two lengths, and again established himself as best three-year-old in world.

Seabiscuit's Money Record One Objective for Bimelech

NEW YORK, May 13 (AP)—Bimelech arrived here from Pimlico today, definitely the head man of the three-year-olds, and with little else left him now but to shoot at Seabiscuit's money winning record and Man O' War's all-time ranking.

By his prancing Preakness victory in which he reduced the rest of the three-year-old field to a considerably worn set of chasing campaigners, the darling of the Blue Grass not only made up for his Kentucky Derby defeat a week earlier, but definitely stamped himself in the "great" class. Now it remains to be seen just how great is Bimmie's claim to that ranking.

Most of the observers, who saw a colt tired and stale from three tough races in nine days lost to Gallahadion in the Derby, placed that setback in the "fluke" class after the way he polished off Mioland and Gallahadion in that order at the Hilltop before a crowd of some 50,000, largest in Maryland's history.

"Say," one veteran of the race tracks said afterward, "that Bimmie could knock off Gallahadion any day before breakfast, and do it twice on Sunday."

Nevertheless, his one defeat in ten outings this year and last only furnishes more proof than ever that the chances of a horse going through his career undefeated are one in a million. Colin, back in the early 1900's is the only one on record. Even Man O'War came up with his one setback, at Saratoga as a two-year-old, while such other great ones as Sun Beau, Gallant Fox, Equipoise, Exterminator, Seabiscuit and War Admiral couldn't come even close to a perfect record.

So having had his beating and come back Bimmie now must show the folks just how close he can get to Man O' War, or Seabiscuit or both. He was as sound as the mint when he came out of yesterday's race.

At the same time Col. E. R. Bradley's training staff laughed at a report that Bimmie will be retired at the end of this, his second year of campaigning.

"He's sound now and as long as he stays that way he'll run," pointed out one spokesman.

Such being the case, even if the Bradley folks pick over the stake events with double care, the chances are he'll go to the post in, say, four or five more events this year. He was shipped to Belmont to be readied for the mile and a half Belmont Stakes June 8 and possibly the Withers Mile next week.

GOODALL ROUND ROBIN TO SET PROS' RATINGS

The 15 leading pros who will compete in the $5000 Goodall round robin starting Thursday on the Fresh Meadow Club course at Flushing, Long Island, N. Y., are agreed that the exacting 126-hole test will determine their final 1940 ratings.

Following the Goodall classic will come the Metropolitan open, May 24-26 at Bloomfield, N. J., and the national open, June 6-8, at the Canterbury Club, Warrensville O. So the schedule provides that three of the season's most important links features will be decided before the summer campaign is only three weeks old.

Slammin' Sammy Snead reflects the sentiments of his Goodall opponents when he says the round robin will be his springboard into the national open. The 126-hole medal-match play conditions not only offers the year's toughest test for the fifteen famous stars, but it also will afford them the best possible preparations for the "Met" and the coveted national crown.

Most of the Goodall contestants who have been practicing daily at Fresh Meadow have ventured conflicting opinions on the outcome of the $5000 event. But they point out that the round robin is fraught with question marks.

Some of these are: Will Byron Nelson flash the same form that won the 1939 open title at Philadelphia; will Henry Picard repeat his last year's conquests; will the promising Ben Hogan replace sensational Jimmy Demaret as the nation's No. 1 money winner, and what are the chances of Martin Pose, Argentine champion?

ENGEN GETS SKI CUP

SALT LAKE CITY, May 13 (AP)—Alf Engen, Salt Lake City and Sun Valley, Idaho, skier, has been chosen to receive the 1940 American ski trophy.

AUSTEN LAKE SAYS:

soaking long and silently in the showers. They looked frayed, all except Jimmy Foxx, whose moon-shaped face was wrinkled with optimism.

"There," said Cronin, jerking his head sidewise toward broad Jeems, "is the greatest trouper of them all."

He is! Come slump, discouragements, sinus and pleurisy—all of which he had last year, Foxx keeps his rubbery grin and pulls his weight.

I remember in '39, just before he went to St. Elizabeth's Hospital to have his antrims drained he said, "Cricky, when I stand up at the plate I see three balls coming up instead of just one. So I try to hit the one in the middle."

Williams, being still juvenile, has a tendency to chew at his internals when the day's quota of hits haven't rattled off his bat, and last evening he sat in the hotel lobby with his chin on his chest and a curly expression about his eyes when Tom Yawkey walked by. Tom stopped, looked at Ted-kid quizzically and asked, "wassamatter?" Ted, a little confused, answered, "Nothin' . . . er . . . aw, well!"

"Lissen," said Yawkey paternally in the argot of the sport, "nuthing so dead as yesterday's ball game. Les' eat . . ." Ted brightened and went in with his brotherly boss. "There's nothing about baseball that a morning sun won't cure . . ." Yawkey advised as they tucked napkins in their vests.

Walk Down to Second on Joe Heving

ONE ADDITIONAL CAUSE for worry popped up in this Yankee series—the question of Joe Heving's hesitant delivery and the liberties which Yankee base runners took with the arc of his arm in Saturday's tenth inning. Joe Gordon virtually strolled down to second with the score tied at 7-all, and a moment later wandered leisurely down to third. For Heving has a languid delay, between the instant of raring back until he lets fly, that gives a runner a headlong start.

Apparently the Yankees are the only team that has noticed it, or at least that take advantage of it, and Cronin is worried lest an epidemic of base larceny is in the offing.

He gave the pitcher a quiet little papa-talk in the corner of the clubhouse Sunday, illustrating a snappy shoulder jerk and quick pivot of the body which is the cure for his laborsome hitch. It may work with patience. For, indeed, Cronin and Frank Schellenback have fairly cured Jack Wilson of his sprawling, tumbling habit at the end of his pitch. The bibble-boy doesn't go into his mound epilepsies any more and is, consequently, a more effective pitcher.

And Cronin is working a gradual cure for Jim Tabor's hysterical throws across the diamond, teaching the angular, loose-jointed lad, the golfer's knack of keeping his head straight and looking squarely at his target instead of ducking it, bird fashion, under his wing. Jim is an increasingly useful citizen.

So, today, it's westward ho! or whoa! as the Sox bend around the orbit where they buried their pennant dream last year in late August. Bring 'em back alive, Joe!

Yanks, Reds Flash Title Winning Form

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

The New York Yankees still are to be reckoned with in the American League pennant race. The way they bounced off the bottom of the standings to shut out the Red Sox 4 to 0, was a performace so forceful few skeptics could doubt that here were the real world's champions.

Red Ruffing whipped out that old fast ball and spread six hits smartly, struck out eight and walked only two. His teammates gave him superb support—no errors and two double plays—to keep Boston from ever getting a man past second.

The champs punched out their hits in familiar fashion—two runs in the third on an error and three singles, another in the seventh on two doubles and a final one in the eighth on a double, a single and an error.

FIRST SOX SHUTOUT

This not only ended the jinx left-handed pitchers had held over them, and an eight-game losing streak, but it also stopped a six-game winning streak for Boston's league leaders and was the first time they had been shut out this season.

In the National League the Cincinnati eds proved once again that they, too,, have the stuff of champions an dare going to be hard to dislodge from first place. They beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-1 and 13-4 in a doubleheader that showed clearly their superiority over the team that many experts expected to take the pennant away from them.

Paul Derringer allowed only four hits in the first game. Then Manager Bill McKechnie shoved old Jim Turner onto the firing line and the Reds repeated even though the veteran allowed 16 hits.

The double victory increased the Reds' margin to a full game over Brooklyn even though the Dodgers defeated the Phillies 5-3 with Fred Fitzsimmons, knuckle-balling getting credit. Fat Freddy had to be rescued when he loaded the bases with two out and one run across in the ninth, but the Dodgers had made sufficient runs beofrehand.

GIANTS EDGE BEES

The Giants edged the Bees, 3-2.

The Chicago Cubs plastered another defeat on the Pittsburgh Pirates, 7-5, when Bill Herman hit a three-run homer in the eighth. Dizzy Dean, who sdpposedly had been relegated to relief roles, started on the mound, gave up a homer in the first inning and was belted out in the second.

It was a rough day for the upper cust in the American League — from the Red Sox down. The Cleveland Indians were thumped 5-2 by th St. Louis Browns, with Eldn Auker rationing nine hits off his submarine ball. The Browns bunched three hits in the last two innings for th winning margin.

The Chicago White Sox tamed the Detroit Tigers 4-3 in epite of home runs by Pinky Higgins and Dick Bartell, getting three runs in the first inning off Lynn Nelson and Dizzy Trout.

Johnny Babich achieved his fourth victory against one defeat as the Philadelphia Athletics whipped the Washington Senators 4-2. Babich held the Nats to two hits and no score for seven innings and coasted in, giving four safeties and two runs in the last two frames.

Bees Pick Sullivan To Halt Giant Surge

ler with two down presented the Giants with another run in the fourth. Otto began the stanza by hitting a change of pace serve to center field for a single but was wiped out when Harry Danning hit into a double play.

Even after Babe Young doubled, it still looked as if Posedel was going to get out of the inning without yielding a run, particularly when Bill Jurges bounded a nice hopper at Eddie Miller, but to the disappointment of the 8000 fans, the Bees' shortstop unloaded a wild heave and Young trotted home to give the Giants a 2-0 lead.

Ross' fourth inning three-bagger was wasted and in the next round, Schumacher crashed one off the center field fence for two sacks, was sacrificed over to third by Whitehead and scored on a single by Ott, after Moore had flied to Ross and Demaree had drawn a walk.

The Bees passed up another chance to score in the fifth when with Lopez on third and Rowell at second, Hassett bounced one back at Schumacher for the third out.

The Bees went to work on Schumacher in the eighth and knocked him out of the box. Hassett, the first batter, singled to left and moved along to third when West drove a long single to right field. Then, Cuccinello came through, as per usual, with a hit, and Lopez crossed the plate with the Bees' first tally.

The Cuccinello hit finished Schumacher, and Walter Brown took over the mound duties for the Giants. Large Walter got off to a fine start by forcing Ross and Scarsella to pop up to Young but Lopez scored West with a line drive to center field and sent Sibby Sisti, who was sent in to run for Cuccinello, around to third.

With the tying and winning runs on the sacks, Miller fanned for the third time.

The Bees went down fighting. In the ninth, Hassett drew a walk and then West hit one into deep right field, which the east wind carried into the bleachers foul by inches.

The Chicago Cubs will open a three-game series with the Bees tomorrow afternoon and, unless Gabby's boys have improved since they beat the Stengeless in the Windy City, they'll do some back pedaling between tomorrow and Thursday.

RED SOX GO WEST; SEE YANK RISE

Bay boys to get the notion they can maintain that pace.

For they came within a game of doing as well in their first 22 games last spring, when a schedule forced them to go West before the West showed up at the Fens.

Their record for that stretch in '39 was 15 wins and seven losses.

There's this big difference, though:

The Sox 15-5 record last season left them two games back of the Yanks, who captured 17 of their 22 starts.

YANKS DANGEROUS

Their present 16-6 slate leaves the Yawkeys in the lead, 1½ games in front of the Indians, who obligingly lost yesterday, and 8½ games up on the Yanks, who, in the grip of the worst slump to hit McCarthy team in 12 years, have won only seven of 21 starts to date.

Last season, for example, the Bombers didn't lose their fourteenth verdict until the last week in June. In other words, the champs are almost six weeks behind their 1939 speed.

But the Indians, on our heels, have shown more improvement than our gang. The Vitt crew won only 12 of their first 22 last year compared with their 14-7 slate at this writing.

It mustn't be forgotten, either, that the Yanks, two games in front at the 22-game mark last year, won out by 17 games.

All of which means the champs gained 15 games on the field over the final six-sevenths of the race. If they could do half as well during the remainder of this season, they could all but make up the ground they have lost thus far.

But the Sox refuse to pay any attention to these figures and comparisons, arguing that they're definitely stronger than they were a year ago.

We'll know more about that after they've played two games with the White Sox, three with the Browns and Tigers and two with the Indians on alien soil.

KICK THREE RUNS IN

Meanwhile we must admit that they've done better than well up to now. They've faced every club in the league and haven't lost a series.

They weren't too hot in New York. They didn't have a pitcher who succeeded in going nine innings and their right-handed hitters didn't hit. That they walked off with the odd game was a tribute to their courage.

They're capable of playing better ball. If they play it and luck continues to smile on them, they should have a most successful trip. For they won't run into any stiffer opposition anywhere than the Yanks furnished them.

They never came close to making a clean sweep of the Stadium series. Charlie Ruffing saw to that on the Sabbath by handing them their first shutout of the year, 4-0.

If they had fielded perfectly, they'd have prevented twe of the three runs the Yanks scored off Freddie Ostermueller in seven innings and the tally yielded by Jack Wilson in the eighth. But they'd have finished a run behind anyway.

They weren't exactly helpless against "Ruff," even though eight of them fanned. They had four scoring opportunities, but always spectacular New York defense stopped them.

Nazis Cross Dutch Canal—By radio from Berlin, this photo purports to show German cavalry crossing a Dutch canal . . . in the early hours of the blitzkrieg which swept over Holland and into Belgium. Meanwhile, Britain has sent thousands of troops into Lowlands.

British Hailed as Saviors—Heading for the new front somewhere-in-Belgium, a British tank rumbles through a village in western Belgium . . . as citizens line the street to hail the incoming English troops. On the other side of the country, invading Nazis are tendered a far different reception . . . with Belgian defenders battling courageously.
